FAMOUS GLOVE CASE.

It Came Up in the Supreme Court Today.

Washington, June 3.—In the supreme court today Justice Gray announced the decision of the court in the case of Henry Hilton and others vs. Guyot, liquidator of the estate of Fortin & Co., involving the validity of foreign judgments, reversing the decision of the court below and remanding the case for trial in the circuit court of the southern district of New York. Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Jackson dissented. The majority standing five to four, the majority being Gray, Field, Brown, Shiras and White. Justice Gray also announced the decision in the Ritchie case affirming the decision of the court below. This was a case involving the validity of a judgment of a Canadian court. The case of Hilton and Libbey vs. Guyot involved the validity of judgments rendered by foreign courts against American citizens and it is understood that a large number of claims of a character similar to that prosecuted by Guyot involving many millions of dollars in amount have been held in abeyance until the conclusion of the case in this case should be made. The case does not properly belong to the present term of the court. It was twice argued during the term of 1893-94, but no conclusion was announced by the court prior to the adjournment of that term, and it remained undecided until today. Guyot appears in the case as the liquidator of the French firm of Fortin & Co., formerly glove manufacturer of Paris, and Messrs. Hilton and Libbey as the successors of A. T. Stewart & Co. of New York.

The history of the case goes back to 1880, and that of the transactions on which it is based to 1880, when the French firm of Fortin & Co. entered upon an agreement with one Alexandre, the predecessor of Fortin & Co., to take from the French house all the gloves manufactured by them for the American market, the two establishments to share both the profit and loss of the business. In 1880 this agreement was brought to a close by a misunderstanding and mutual charges of bad faith. The French firm brought suit in the tribunal of commerce of the Seine when the case was decided in favor of Fortin & Co., and from which decision it was appealed by Stewart & Co. to the Paris court of appeals, where the decision was also antagonistic to Stewart & Co., the judgment in the French courts fixing the amount of indebtedness of the New York house to the French firm at $155,122 with interest. Before the decree was announced Stewart & Co. closed their Paris establishment, and the majority sought to collect the judgment in France. Fortin & Co., in 1880, brought suit in the United States circuit court, southern district of New York, to compel collection on the French judgment. The defendants filed a bill of discovery, filing counter claims, and asserting that the judgment of the French court was re-examinable. The French court was re-examinable. The bill of discovery and ordered that Stewart & Co. should pay the judgment in accordance with the finding of the French courts. The case was appealed to the United States supreme court in 1890. The case of Samuel J. Ritchie vs. James McVallin and George W. McVallin, in error from the court of the Northern district of Ohio, involved the same questions as the Hilton case, except at the judgment which it was sought to have affirmed, and was rendered by a Canadian court.

Chief Justice Fuller handed down the opinion of the court in the case of the United States vs. Burr and Harwich, involving the date when the present tariff law went into effect. The decision was that this did not occur until Aug. 28, 1894, when the bill became a law, notwithstanding the law itself fixed the date as Aug. 1. The case was regarded by the government as one of great importance, and by special arrangement was advanced to a speedy hearing. The government won.

Chief Justice Fuller also announced the decision in the case of the United States vs. Burr and Harwich, involving the date when the present tariff law went into effect. The decision was that this did not occur until Aug. 28, 1894, when the bill became a law, notwithstanding the law itself fixed the date as Aug. 1. The case was regarded by the government as one of great importance, and by special arrangement was advanced to a speedy hearing. The government won.

NEW YORK'S POLICE PUZZLE. New York, June 3.—The general term of the court of common pleas has handed down a decision ordering the police commissioners to review their action in dismissing from the department ex-lieutenant Captain William S. Devery and his wardman, Glennon. The decision with regard to Devery was granted on the grounds that the defendant was ill and unable to appear, although the police commissioners held that he did appear. With reference to the case of Glennon, the decision was granted on the ground that Glennon objected to his trial going on in the absence of Capt. Devery, as the latter was an important witness.

ROAD RACE POSTPONED. Sioux City, Iowa, June 3.—The Le-mans-Sioux City road race which had been postponed to Labor day, the roads being a sea of mud.

A Bursted Mill Dam Does Frightful Damage in Nebraska.

Medicine Valley Devasted by a 10-Foot Wall of Water.

Cars, Bridges and Buildings Washed Away Like Fluttering Feathers.

Curtis, Neb., June 3.—Curtis lake burst from its banks late yesterday afternoon and the volume of water released carried destruction through the Medicine valley. The lake covered an area of 100 acres and was constructed as an irrigation reservoir and incidentally to furnish power to the Curtis roller mills. An enormous dam was built across the mouth of Wild canyon where it intercepts the Medicine river at that point and all the water coming from the territory to the north, some three square miles in extent, was confined in the artificial basin.

The enormous flood of water that has passed into the lake during the past five days was too heavy for the dam. The first intimation this citizens had that the locality was threatened with disaster was when the bank of the lake burst. With a roar that could be heard several miles away, the water rushed down the valley, carrying everything in its path. Houses, freight cars, stock, and a mountain of debris was caught up and dashed about like feathers.

The fine roller mills which occupy the east side of the great ravine received the first shock of the deluge. In this direction alone, is estimated at $25,000. A hundred yards below the mills the Medicine river, under the railroad tracks of the Burlington railroad, when the flood struck this narrow defile its progress was impeded, but only for an instant, then the heavy embankments gave way and the wall of water rushed down cutting a path a hundred yards wide. A number of freight cars were standing on the tracks close to the river, and were precipitated into the river, being carried down the stream like straws. Much of the track was left spanning the chasm while other sections were carried over bodily by the great pressure of the flood. The railroad company's loss is about $25,000.

As the wall of water passed beyond the city, it rapidly spread out over an immense territory and its powers of destruction were correspondingly decreased. The damage, however, was merely shifted as the extensive alfalfa meadows for many miles to the south were flooded. Several feet of water and fears are entertained that the crops will be permanently destroyed. All details from the south where the torrent passed indicate a very serious damage.

No loss of life has thus far been reported.

No one should miss seeing the "Pickwick Trial" at the Temple tonight.

ADMIRAL KIRKLAND.

He Talked Turkey to the Turkish Pasha.

Peoria, Ill., June 3.—A private letter received in this city from Beyrout, Syria, under date of May 7, contains the following important statement: "The two United States men-of-war, the Admiral (Kirkland) and the Constantine, upon the outbreak of the rebellion, were given the honor of representing the United States in the behavior of the Turkish gendarmes. The admiral (Kirkland) is a big bluff old fellow, just the one to bulldoze the Turk, and he did it in style. The Turks have been quite nasty up there of late. A great impression was created in Beyrout, too. The people here had fears of a massacre by the Moslems, and thought the arrival of the frigates prevented it."

WORK FOR LABORERS. Indianapolis, June 3.—Paving and Municipal Engineering has gathered statistics from the city engineers of cities of more than 10,000 population which show that more public work will be done during the summer of 1894 than ever before, the expenditures for paving, sewerage, water-works and bridges approximating $200,000,000, while last year not a fourth of this amount was expended.

PITTSBURGH IS SWEETERING. Pittsburgh, June 3.—This city is again sweltering under a hot sun today. At noon the thermometer registered 93 degrees in the shade, and the weather bureau predicted higher temperature during the afternoon. There were three deaths from sun stroke today and several other cases of persons being overcome by the heat were reported. The mill men suffer most severely.

SLOT THE CAPTAIN GENERAL. Madrid, June 3.—A sensation has been caused here by the shooting of the captain general, Don Antonio Canalejas, in the army has for some time past been paying his addresses to the general's daughter, and today he requested her hand in marriage. The general refused, and hot words were exchanged, resulting in the shooting.

MINNEAPOLIS MURDER.

Believed That the Mother Was the Murderess.

Minneapolis, June 3.—Evidence presented at the Elias inquest this morning went far toward clearing Loren Elias, the weak-minded son from the suspicion that he was the murderer of his mother and sister. A. R. Walker, a clerk in a St. Paul gun store, testified that he had sold Mrs. Elias a 32-caliber revolver and that she had brought it back saying it was not heavy enough. She then exchanged it for the 44 which the shooting was done with.

IN A WASHOUT.

Four Railroaders Killed in Nebraska Last Night.

Omaha, June 3.—Special to the Bee from McCook, Neb., says: About 9 o'clock last night, while searching for washouts between Edison and Oxford, the engine of the repair train plunged into the water and the five men on the engine were killed. The names of the dead are: B. V. Haley, roadmaster; Frank Jeffries, engineer; Samuel Mundy, conductor; Frank Harris, private secretary to Superintendent of the Burlington railroad, miraculously escaped with slight injuries. All but Mundy are married men whose families reside in McCook, where the dead men were brought this morning. This is the most disastrous accident to life that has ever occurred on this division and is one of the results of the breaking of Curtis lake dam.

THE CABINET LADIES.

Washington, June 3.—According to present arrangements Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Olney, with their households, will leave the city by the Pennsylvania road for their summer homes on the Massachusetts coast next Wednesday morning. Mr. Olney's secretary, Mr. McCook, where the dead men were brought this morning. This is the most disastrous accident to life that has ever occurred on this division and is one of the results of the breaking of Curtis lake dam.

THE TIME EXTENDED.

Trenton, N. J., June 3.—Justice Lippincott, of the supreme court, has granted an order extending to July 1 the time for George J. Gould's pleading to the suit brought against him for $40,000 by William H. Rouse, who claims that Gould wrongfully obtained from her and withholds certificates of that value. The postponement was made on the strength of affidavits setting forth Mr. Gould's absence from the city.

THE WASHINGTON INVADERS. Washington, June 3.—Mary A. Dodge's condition remains about the same. She has not gained any strength since. The doctors predict that she will be able to move about in a few days. Pleasanton is much better than he has been for some time. Representative Hill is doing better. The weather does not seem to affect him seriously.

Gould's pleading to the suit brought against him for $40,000 by William H. Rouse, who claims that Gould wrongfully obtained from her and withholds certificates of that value. SUNK

The Propeller Belle Cross Sank in the Harbor Saturday Night.

Vessel Rates Are Practically Unchanged and Very Little Is Doing.

May Traffic of the Sault Canal Greatest in Its History.

The propeller Belle P. Cross, of the Indian tow of lumber carriers, sank in the channel off Duluth & Superior's mill Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. She was moving away from the dock with her load, when she ran upon the bank. In coming off, when she struck port water she rolled and listed to starboard. The water ran in her gangways, and she slid off the bank and sank in seventeen feet of water.

A small amount of her deck load was lost, and the remainder which sat mostly above water, is being lightened today. The lumber in the hold bays her up, and as soon as the deck load is removed she will be towed to shoal water and pumped out. She will be refloated again and ready to leave by tomorrow noon.

Vessel rates are practically unchanged at 24 cents for wheat to Buffalo, 35 cents to Kingston, 14 shillings for lumber to Chicago, 13 shillings to Buffalo and Tonawanda and 12 shillings to Ohio ports, and 30 cents for ore. Very little is doing in any line, and the ore rate is the only one that shows much strength. A good deal of lumber left this port last week, but there is likely to be a lull for a few days. There is no demand for wheat tonnage and the rate is not particularly strong at quotation.

The old Ogea, recently purchased by Capt. Joseph Doyle to run into Cleveland in the stone trade, left yesterday for Cleveland with 200,000 feet of lumber. She was in dry dock for some days to be fitted for the voyage.

In order that a sale of the wreck of the steamer Joseph L. Hurd, which was wrecked on the shore of the Sault Ste. Marie, may be supported on stills planted in the bed of the lake.

May traffic of the Sault Ste. Marie canal was the greatest in its history.

The record for the largest number of vessels passing in a single day was broken several times, as was also the record for the largest amount of registered tonnage. The number of vessels was as follows: May 21, 101 vessels; May 22, 147 vessels; May 23, 162 vessels; May 24, 106 vessels. The total number of passages for the month are 2441, an average of 77 a day. The registered tonnage for the month was 2,244,246 tons.

Upon the pinnacle of popularity is Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. It has never been beaten by any other.

JUBILEE REGATTA.

The Britannia Again Defeats the New Ailsa.

Harwich, Eng., June 3.—The jubilee regatta opened here today with beautiful weather and a light wind. Lord Howard Gould's Niagara, Lord Dudley's Inez, Mr. F. B. Jamson's Lumbago, Lord Dunraven's Audrey, Price Dathan-Stratman's Stephanie and Mimosas started in the race for the twenty raters at 10:30 a. m. The prize is £25 and the course covers a distance of twenty-two miles. Niagara got the worst of the start crossing the line thirty seconds behind her opponents, who got away in a cluster. Mr. A. B. Walker's Ailsa and the prince of Wales' Britannia, the latter started at 10 a. m. In the race for yachts over forty tons. The course was thirty-seven miles long, Britannia having the windward position, crossed the line forty seconds ahead of the Ailsa. Britannia rounded the Sunk light after having sailed over about two-thirds of the course at 1 h 57 m. Ailsa was then half a mile astern. Britannia crossed the finish line a winner, 2½ minutes ahead of the Ailsa.

The following were the times at the finish, for the twenty raters: Audrey, 4h 08m 15s; Niagara, 4h 08m 15s; Inez, 4h 08m 55s. The yachts finished in a quail amid such excitement, the Audrey winning by four seconds only.

ARGUMENTS WERE HEARD.

Final Decision Soon in Dowman Against Moss.

Washington, June 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Smith today heard oral arguments of a motion for review in the land case of Dowman against Moss. It is expected that a final decision will be rendered in a few weeks. The supreme court today reversed the decision of the circuit court for the Western district of Wisconsin in the case of Henry F. Spencer, plaintiff in error vs. Alexander McDougall, involving a quarter section of land in Western Wisconsin. This case hinged upon construction of two acts of congress making land grants to Wisconsin. Similar action was taken in the case of Wisconsin Central railway against W. O. Forsythe involving same acts.

Secretary Smith today approved as a basis for patent, clear list of 46 of swamp and overflowed lands selected by the state of Minnesota, embracing 1454 acres in the Duluth district.

DECISIONS

Decision in the Barleyoung Case Knocks Out Many Pensioners.

The Supreme Court, However, Has Given a Contrary Ruling.

Whole Matter Rests on the Time When the War Ended.

Washington, June 3.—The question as to the termination of the civil war, raised by Assistant Secretary Reynolds of the Interior department, in a recent pension decision, has given rise to considerable discussion. The case in question was that of John Barleyoung, a soldier who had entered the army April 19, 1866. He applied for a pension under the three-months' service act, claiming that the war did not terminate until Aug. 30, 1866, when President Johnson by proclamation announced that peace had been restored. Secretary Reynolds claimed that active hostilities ceased in April, 1865, nine months before Barleyoung enlisted. He said further: "It is not believed that congress intended to pension those whose rendition of service, military or naval, had no connection whatever with the belligerent operations of the war, were not upon the theater of the conflict and had nothing to do with the object and purpose of the war."

For these reasons the claim was disallowed. The effect of the decision was to exclude a large number of persons who entered the service between July 1862 and May, 1866, from the operations of the pension law. Since the decision was made it was ascertained that the supreme court in December 1887 held that the war did not terminate until the date of the president's proclamation on Aug. 30, 1866. The case then decided was under the "captured and abandoned property act," which authorized such property to bring suit for its recovery within two years after the suppression of the rebellion. The court held expressly that the question of date of termination of the war, was not to be left to each claimant to settle, but was to be determined by some formal act of the government; that the first official declaration on the point was the president's proclamation; and that congress had expressly adopted this date as that on which the rebellion ended.

The opinion closed as follows: "As congress in its legislation for this subject should not be regarded as settling the question wherever private rights are affected by it," the view of this decision and the large number of persons involved, the Barleyoung case will probably be reopened.

RAILROAD SPINX.

James J. Hill Continues to Be Very Mum.

Portland, Ore., June 3.—James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, arrived here last evening over the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line from Spokane, accompanied by his wife and three children and his private secretary. Mr. Hill comes here to meet Jacob H. Schiff, a New York banker, the holder in the Great Northern, who will arrive today from San Francisco. Together they will leave tonight or tomorrow morning for Seattle.

Mr. Hill's Western trip is taken mostly for rest and to inspect his line. This is, at least, what he says about it. In an interview he would say nothing further about the Northern Pacific going into his control than that it was being reorganized and would be soon on a sound financial basis. With the Northern Pacific in good shape financially, he predicted.

HEART DISEASE.

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could Not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and am happy to say it has cured me. I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. Its effect was truly marvelous.

denied renewed prosperity to the Northwest. Mr. Hill denied emphatically that he had any intention of gaining control of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company. "The R. R. and N. Co.," he said, "holds the key to the railway situation as far as it pertains to Portland, and this city will be a great deal better off as long as the road remains independent of any transcontinental line."

DENVER'S EXPOSITION.
Funds Secured and the Big Show Is Assured.

Denver, June 3.—The managers of the proposed mining and industrial exposition have issued a statement to the public setting forth what has already been accomplished and what it is proposed to do. They say: "The results, to date, of the canvass for subscriptions justify the statement that ample financial aid will be obtained, and the selection of site ends the important preliminary work of the command with this announcement, the exposition is now assured."

"Since the national mining and industrial exposition held in Denver in 1892, which was the first of the series, the subsequent development of Colorado, there has been no exposition of the resources and industrial progress of the trans-Mississippi country. Since that time the country west of the Mississippi has increased in population 50 per cent. It has added five new states to the Union. It has built the $2,000,000,000 miles of railroad and has added to the world's wealth millions in the products of the mines, the fields and the factories. This great region is the producing belt of the world. It constitutes two-thirds of the United States and it is the home of 7,000,000 of the nation's most progressive people."

FIRE IN PENNSYLVANIA.
Kane, Pa., June 3.—At an early hour yesterday morning a locomotive set fire to the Woods near Hunter Run, a small settlement eleven miles southwest of Kane. Men were sent to the scene to fight it. A high wind was blowing and the flames reached the oil property of the Midland Oil company and threatened it with destruction. The oilmen and lumbermen immediately sent 200 men to Hunter Run. They fought the fire until Sunday night before getting it under control. A large number of logs and about 50,000 feet of hemlock lumber were destroyed. Five rigs, two tanks and two boiler houses of the Midland company and much valuable timber were burned. The fire burned over about five square miles of forest.

BACK TO WORK AGAIN.
Providence, R. I., June 3.—About one-half of the operatives in the Olneyville mills returned to work today. Several of the weavers went back to work at the Mill No. 1. At the three mills in the Fletcher plant there are less than 20 men at work, and the other mills are almost empty. A few returned at the Duluth mills. About sixty mill men returned today at the factories, but no trouble is reported.

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, once fairly tried, becomes the favorite spring medicine, speaks volumes for its excellence and merit.

SURVIVE

A Few Colima Passengers Discovered Along the Mexican Shore.

Expectation That More Survivors Will Be Found in Villages.

Boats Capsized Trying to Reach Survivors on the Beach.

San Francisco, June 3.—An Examiner special from the City of Mexico says rescuing parties are still in search of the survivors of the Colima disaster. Land parties, mounted on foot, are operating in the vicinity of Ixtapalapa, Laurota, Zacatula, and as far south as Nuevos, while the people all along the coast of Acapulco have information of the disaster and have been asked to take particular care to patrol the beach whenever possible, not only are the sea and coast lines to be rigidly scoured, but other parties are operating on horseback as far inland as ten miles in hopes of encountering some of the still living, who may have found shelter in some of the small villages.

It is believed that a number of the passengers, mad from their terrible experiences and the keen beravements, on reaching land have gone wandering about, as many of the passengers were unable to speak Spanish, they could not make known their position and they were being helplessly among the simple but kindly Indians along the coast country. It would not be strange if some of the preliminary work of the command with this announcement, the exposition is now assured.

"Since the national mining and industrial exposition held in Denver in 1892, which was the first of the series, the subsequent development of Colorado, there has been no exposition of the re-

The survivors who have reached Manzanillo say that Capt. Pitts, of the steamship San Juan should have cruised at least two days longer on the discovery of the wreck and believe that a good many others could have been picked up there have since perished. There are hopes that others may have reached the shore at Point San Telmo. The steamer Mazatlan returned to Manzanillo from the wreck yesterday. May 31 she discovered a party of survivors on the beach from the second life raft and sent a boat to ashore them. It was found that the sea in the high surf. The men are supposed to have reached shore. The life raft was between here and Coahuila and a man has been sent on horseback sixty miles down the beach for the survivors.

The first raft survivors report seeing a woman's head, with long black hair, and the body had been cut off by floating wreckage or eaten by sharks. The steamer Romero, of Vera Cruz, is still searching for survivors. If any more are found they will be brought to Manzanillo or taken to Acapulco.

CHINESE MISSIONS DESTROYED.
Shanghai, June 1.—Intelligence has been received here that between May 29 and May 31 the French and English and American missionary property at Ching To, capital of the province of Zee-tum, China, was destroyed by rioters. SUNSTROKES IN CHICAGO.
Chicago, June 3.—The weathering temperature in this city continues. The government thermometer registered 87 degrees at 10 o'clock, which is the highest record ever reached in this city for that hour. A good breeze alleviated the suffering from the blistering temperature to some extent, but instructions were numerous.

WHISKY TRUST LITIGATION.
Chicago, June 3.—Judge Shovalter, in the United States court, rendered a decision today in the litigation of the organization committee of the whisky trust to the bill of injunction of the United States court, which was subject to the mortgage loan, that there was no allegation that the receiver was not concerned in the property. The court therefore refused the injunction prayed for.

BRACE OF FIENDS.
Where Is the Famous Indiana Jurist, Judge Lynch?

South Bend, Ind., June 3.—One of the most dastardly crimes ever committed in this locality has come to light. A man named Zeebly and his wife carried one mile north of their home and thrown into a deep ditch, and the fiends returned home, not caring what became of the little body.

During the night the child recovered consciousness and crawled out of the ditch into the road and was there over forty rods to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Wheat, who found her in the morning on the door step. Her condition was horrible and she is now under the charge of two physicians. Up to the last reports the brutal couple had not been arrested.

TRAVELING MEN IN TEXAS.
San Antonio, Texas, June 3.—The "Travelers' Protective association of America," which was organized in Denver, Col., in June, 1890, is holding its sixth annual convention to celebrate the fifth year of its existence. It has had a rapid growth in the last two years beginning with a membership of 3,945, June 1, 1893, and closing with 10,600, June 1, 1895. The association is now organized in thirty-two states and in ninety-eight large cities of the United States. From the report of its national president, John A. A SEALING PROSECUTION.
Victoria, B. C., June 3.—Admiral Stephenson has decided that it will be necessary for prosecution in admiralty to be brought against the sealer Shelby, arrested by the cutter Cornish, in order to formally vindicate the schooner, because of the seizure of arms during the closed season. This course is required as necessary to enable the schooner to claim damages from the American government through the British home office. The sealer was seized with the schooner yesterday surrendered by the admiralty unconditionally to Capt. Channon.

BRITISH CONSULS.
They Send Some Interesting Reports from America.

Washington, June 3.—Reports of British consuls stationed in the United States to the British foreign office have been received, showing a wide range of subjects on which that government is kept informed. W. W. Southerland, British consul at Baltimore, submits an interesting summary of the Maryland and Delaware ship canal project. He points out that the canal will materially shorten the distance between Baltimore and European ports and will add considerably to the defenses of the coast in case of war.

Rawson Walker, consul at Charleston, reports that the shipping entering that port is almost entirely British. He says that twenty years ago the arrival of a British ship there was an exception, but now it is the rule. The French flag has almost disappeared from the coast. He also reviews the statistics in petroleum and the foreign vessels propelled by steam carry the British flag. Rawson Walker says before the heat, Ohio and Indiana States and Great Britain as to the arrest of deserting seamen is having a serious effect on the shipping trade.

Capt. Clepper, consul at Philadelphia, reports on the revival of trade throughout the United States. He says "A steady and remarkable advance in prices is reported as having occurred since Jan. 25 last, when confidence commenced to be restored by the successful operations of the Boyd syndicate. He shows the substantial foundation for the revival, calling attention to the crop reports, the crops of Illinois and Wisconsin being unusually good, and the wheat showing an average, Michigan being below the average and Kansas very bad. He also reviews the statistics in petroleum and the steps taken by the agricultural department to learn the cause of the advance in the price of wheat.

A. R. Harkness, vice consul at Charleston, S. C., reports as to the recent case of the civil suit who was charged with the murder of a woman. He says some of the nuggets are and twenty-five pounds of solid gold. He is of the opinion that the mines would pay if legitimate. Mr. Harkness says that the new Cholon process will render valuable hundreds of gold mines now lying idle. North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, and make it possible to get millions of dollars of gold out of the earth. He says it is possible, with the introduction of this new process, that the South will become one of the great gold producing countries in the world.

BOILED TELEGRAMS.
Huston Osborne, a negro tramp who attempted to assault Miss Freda Ketchum, 18 years old, at St. Paul, narrowly escaped lynching, and was finally delivered over to the police.

Numerous fatal sunstrokes are reported from Southern and Middle Western cities. The thermometers appear to be making new records for this season of the year.

The Vulturen Buton factory at Babylon, N. Y., was destroyed by fire with the loss of $60,000. Several firemen were painfully injured.

Heavy rains caused a freshet near McCook, Neb., yesterday, and Curtis lake, a small body of water, burst its banks and did a vast amount of damage and more is expected.

San Francisco has another murder sensation. A Miss Harrington was found dead and terribly mutilated in her room. She was a friend of Senator Buck. A suspicion attaches to him, and he is said to be dying at his home, the result, he says, of being thrown from a carriage.

DISABLED STEAMER ARRIVES.
New York, June 3.—When the Anchor line steamer Furber, Capt. Harris, from Glasgow, May 23, was sighted south of Fire Island today, she had in tow a small steamer, which is no doubt the British steamer Euclyptus, for New York. The French line steamer La Bourgeois, which arrived yesterday morning from Havre reported having sighted the Euclyptus, off Nantucket, with her cylinder head broken. Capt. Ritchie, of the Euclyptus, said that his ship was in no danger, and he would assist her to reach port. As no lives were in danger, Capt. Lebourg, of La Bourgeois, could not be seen in tow, as is the rule of the French line, except to save life.

ENGLISH CROPS POOR.
London, June 3.—The Times prints today a gloomy review of the English crop prospects. It says that much of the wheat is further advanced than generally at the middle of April. The fruit crop in Kent, it appears has suffered from the drought. The situation in France is favorable. The outlook for the hay crop is satisfactory. In 1894 there is generally a light improvement over the average yield.

A request, addressed, in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:—

"... You cannot imagine the fear and confusion I was in when I first wrote you. I was simply of no use to myself or any one else. I had worked hard, and my nervous system was shattered from within by trouble and traveling constantly. I ran the gamut of doctors' theories, and all my health and money were rapidly vanishing. I'm all right now, and am gaining flesh daily. I follow your advice faithfully in everything. Thank you for the little book which you sent me, and Lydia E. ADVISED BUILDING.

Committee Recommends a New School for Glen Avon.

The matter of a new school for Glen Avon was again brought up at the meeting of the board of education Saturday evening. The committee on schools and teachers, to whom it had been referred, reported to the board favoring the project, and advised building the new school as soon as a site can be secured. The present school house is much too small. The committee on grounds and buildings will take charge of the matter and report at the next board meeting.

Mr. McDonald spoke warmly against the high school teachers who failed to join the excursion to the range Friday.

On motion of Superintendent Denola a committee was appointed to extend an invitation to the National Educational association to hold their next convention in Duluth.

A committee from the Engineers' association was present and were granted the use of one of the High School rooms Monday evening for a school of electrical engineering.

Plans were submitted by E. G. Barrett for heating the Adams and Jackson buildings, and the committee on buildings was ordered to advertise for bids in conformity with the law.

The committee on buildings and grounds will prepare plans for a 4-room addition to the Madison school on Garfield avenue.

The only bid received for the old Irving school at West Duluth was $500. This was regarded as too low and the matter was given to the committee on buildings and grounds.

The monthly accounts were audited and ordered paid.

JACKSON LET OUT.
Chief Black has Discharged the Assistant Chief.

Chief Black of the fire department yesterday morning dismissed Assistant Chief Jackson from the department. The charge was conduct unbecoming a gentleman and consisted in using profanity to a police officer.

During the fire in the jewelry establishment in the Metropolitan block Saturday night, Lieut. McLean and his men were making an effort to hold back the crowd and to permit no one unauthorized to enter the burning store.

Assistant Chief Jackson, it is alleged, dashed up toward the store and tried to force his way through the fire line. Lieut. McLean who failed to recognize him attempted to stop him. He asked what business he had in the building.

To this the assistant chief, it is alleged, replied as follows: "You let go and don't tear my clothes."

In explaining his position in regard to the dismissal the chief said: "Jackson appears to have been much in the wrong both in appearing at a fire in citizen's clothes and using abusive language. He should have better control of his temper and I feel unable to overlook such conduct. The fire and police departments should work together and Jackson's dismissal may be considered permanent."

EXPERTS

Testimony Introduced to Establish the Quality of the Ore.

J. B. Cotton Testifies in the Interest of the Consolidated.

Continuation of the McKinley-Consolidated Iron Mines Case.

F. T. Gates was placed on the stand Saturday afternoon when court opened to give his testimony in the McKinley vs. Consolidated Iron Mines case. He said he went up on the range and over the McKinley property in September, 1893, at Mr. Wetmore's solicitation. Up to that time he had never seen Mr. McKinley. He told of the stroll over the McKinley property and his meeting William McKinley. On the return he had a conference with the McKinleys, L. J. Merritt, Hulbert Merritt and Capt. Nichols being in the car at the time. When asked to tell what occurred at the interview Mr. Gates said: "I said, 'Mr. McKinley, I hear you wanted to see me and that you wanted to put your property into the consolidation.' He said he did. I got right down to business right off; there was no preliminary talk. I asked him what he wanted for his property. He said he wanted $1,000,000 in bonds. I replied to him, 'Mr. McKinley, that is absolutely out of the question; we are not going to issue any more bonds for properties on this range and your property is a little for working capital. He asked me how much we proposed to issue for working capital. I said $200,000 or $300,000. I then went on and explained why Mr. Rockefeller had got bonds for his property. He said Rockefeller had paid cash for his property, while these other properties were speculative. That Mr. Rockefeller had never been up here on the range; had never seen these properties, and was not acquainted with the Merritts. He didn't know what the management of the properties was going to be; that he was unwilling to put his property in with these unknown properties on the same basis, stock basis; that he had taken the present stock basis and offered for three years by which, if he chose, he could convert his bonds in stock at 50 cents the dollar; that I believed if he came up and looked over these magnificent properties and got to be acquainted with the management he would see it was for his interest ultimately to accept that offer."

TALKED UP MERRITT STOCK.
He was asked if Mr. McKinley said anything about the Merritts getting stock for bonds.

"Mr. McKinley then said to me, with his testimony was corroborative of that of one in sight. On the fee he estimated the amount at $95,500 tons. A fourth-fifth interest in this he valued at $115,000. The rest of the range he considered of no value because not merchantable."

When the direct examination was concluded Judge Hiler adjourned court until 1:30 p. m.

MELTED AWAY.

Only Two Court Cases Brought to Trial Today.

In circuit court the trial of court cases was begun this morning and the setting of cases melted like chaff before the wind. Only two cases came to trial and the remainder were continued. Before Judge Moore the case of one Scott & Holston Lumber company was on trial.

At noon Judge Lewis was engaged in hearing the case of the Merchant's National bank of Duluth, Mich., against A. H. Stanford, to recover $200 on a promissory note. The defense was that the note was to be paid only in case a line of railroad was built through the land owned by the defendant. The court held that this was never built and if it was, he has a claim for legal services against the company that was to have built the road that will offset the note.

SAD CASE

Pauline Enger Is the Victim of a Long Series of Abuses.

Driven From Home on Saturday She Found Police Protection.

Henry Haskins Determined to Prosecute the Child's Stepfather.

Pauline Enger, a 10-year-old stepdaughter of Christ Enger, who lives on the Maple Grove road near Duluth Heights, is now under police protection at the Central station. Enger is said to have terribly abused the child and on Saturday night drove her from the miserable hovel which she called home. Her face and arms bear marks of repeated beatings and her back is livid with marks of the lash. Although 10 years old the girl has the appearance of being about 16. She is feeble minded and subject to fits.

Several times the neighbors have complained of Enger's brutality and on Saturday Humane Officer Haskins paid a visit to the Enger shack. Not finding Enger at home he left a note warning him that his abuses had been complained of and must be stopped. The girl says on Enger's return home he read the note and flew into a rage and attempted to beat her. She fled from the house and he refused to permit her to return. Friendless and penniless Pauline wandered toward the city and was finally met by Officer McEwen, who brought her to the Central station.

When she arrived she was almost famished and completely exhausted. Pauline says she was compelled, in all kinds of weather to look after the cow which she followed to pasture.

At one time the girl was sent to live with a friend of Enger's, a shack at Rice lake. She stayed there for three weeks and was compelled to sleep with Enger's friend, so she says, all during that time. Enger wanted her to marry the man, but she refused. She denies that she was criminally assaulted while at Rice lake, but circumstances lead the police to think she is concealing the truth.

The matron says Pauline is docile and inoffensive, and by no means an idiot, although a trifle weak minded. She has learned to read and write and her fits are pronounced to be curable if properly treated. She has a fairly intelligent countenance, but speaks in a stammering manner. She cried profusely while relating the story of her troubles. The neighbors are very indignant against Enger because of his treatment of the girl, and threats of white capping have been freely made. Humane Officer Haskins is very much interested in the case and will prosecute the stepfather. It is not yet been decided what disposition will be made of the girl, but she has been turned over to the county and will probably be sent to Fairbairn.

Both bride and groom are prominent in Duluth society. Rev. Dr. Ryan performed the ceremony, after which the young couple left for a bridal tour to Colorado and the West. Only the relatives and a few of the friends of the contracting parties were present.

midnight and on Saturday night he returned at that time to the station and removed his rubber coat, boots and gloves and started home. He must have found the light out of order and attempted to fix it. He stood in a small pool of water at the time and after the corner had been notified the remains were removed to Durkan's morgue. Hart was single man, about 23 years of age, and his relatives live at Ontario where his body was taken this afternoon.

Have Cut the Rates.

There is a large war on between two lines of boats carrying passengers between Tacoma and Alaska, and as a result the trip to that Ultima Thule may be accomplished at a very low rate. Formerly the rate from Duluth was $100. It is now $65, as the boat lines have announced first-class rates from Tacoma of $10 to Wrangell, $12 to Juneau and $15 to Sitka. Steamer rates are one-half of this.

The Pacific Coast Steamship company had a monopoly on the business for a number of years, and a new line has been established lately, and the old company has started in to freeze the new one out. A short time ago they were carrying passengers free.

ENGLISH YACHT RACES.
Harwich, Eng., June 4.—The regatta was continued today with races over the same course as yesterday. For the yachts over forty tons the course was thirty-seven miles long and for the twenty-tonners the course was twenty-two miles. The prince of Wales' Irishman crossed the starting line half a minute ahead of Mr. Walker's Albatross. The wind was light. Howard Gould's Niagara had the weather berth in the start and she also had the best of it at the beginning of the race and led Prince Bathurst-Stratford's Stephanie and Lord Dunsen's Audrey by two lengths. On leaving the river the Niagara had nearly doubled that distance in the lead and looked like a winner, but the Stephanie won, finishing at 5 h 5 m 2 s.

Burning Forests and Blazing Oil Wells in Northern Pennsylvania.

Coon Run, Russell City and Sugar Run Totally Swept From Sight.

Between Blazing Forests the People Are Fleeing for Protection.

Bradford, Pa., June 4.—Elk county has experienced a number of destructive forest fires, but those of Sunday, yesterday and today surpass them all. The fire at Russell City last night was one that drove terror to the hearts of the 500 people who inhabit the place. At 10 o'clock a brisk west wind sprang up and fanned the burning underbrush and hemlock timber into one solid mass of fire covering a stretch of three miles in width. The people, who were about exhausted from fighting the flames for the past days were forced to flee for their lives.

The flames spread so rapidly that the people had to leave everything and run to the clearing two miles distant at Highland corners. Women with children in their arms, shrieking and bemoaning their fate, ran and stumbled as they escaped from the fire. Many women fell exhausted and were trampled on, but reached Highland in safety. Nothing is left of the once bustling little place. The fire is still burning fiercely among the oil wells. The Northern Oil company has twenty oil wells and a number of tanks burning at the place now, and there is no abatement to the fury of the flames. It is impossible to estimate the loss.

The woods leading to Clarks Mills are one mass of flames on both sides of the road, and how the people who live along the road could have escaped is beyond comprehension. There is no communication of any description with this place and no news obtainable from there, but there is no doubt of everything having been burned in the path of the fire, as there was no protection of any kind.

Every available man is out fighting fire and there are not half enough. There is fire in every direction and all efforts to check its progress seem futile. Coon Run, three miles from Russell City, which was swept out yesterday afternoon, was entirely obliterated from the face of the earth, and nothing remains to show that there ever was such a place as Coon Run. The place consisted of twenty-five dwellings, a pump station, school house and a store. J. F. Fowler, superintendent of the Northern company, says that while he and his men were working on the fire, a stiff breeze from the west came like magic and in less time than it takes to tell it, the fire was upon them. They ran to the town and aroused the people, advising them to flee.

Men, women and children made a wild race for the railway tracks, a distance of five miles, while the flames played havoc with the houses. The fire and the Northern company lost forty oil wells at this place and a large number of new rigs that had been chased for new wells. About twenty-five tanks of oil were consumed. The Elk oil company is also a heavy loser. The pipe lines lost both their pump stations, with a quantity of oil. The loss will be very great.

The fire at West Kane, which threatened destruction of that place, is now under control. The damage done was engine house and one dwelling house. The fire reported at Knapp's Creek is still raging, and has done a large amount of damage. The fire has spread to Belles camp and thirty-five oil wells are now on fire.

Reports from Duke Center state that the entire valley is on fire and the loss to oil men will be enormous. Kansas Branch, Rixford, Davis City, Summit City, Dallas City, Oil Valley, Lime-stone, State Line, Derricks City and Red Rock are all in it, and unless the fire is soon there is no telling what the result will be.

The sky is black with smoke and the mountains are invisible. On all sides the heat is intense. Not an idle man can be found and calls for men come from every direction. Men are still fighting the fire at Desha's place. Everything at Sugar Run, including sawmills and dwellings were burned and nothing remains of the place. The fire at Brookston is still burning fiercely and it is impossible to get men and the fire therefore makes rapid headway.

AN ENGINEER BURNED.
Fredericksburg, Pa., June 4.—The worst fire ever known here occurred this morning at 4 o'clock. King's factory, the Excelsior mills and six dwelling houses were burned. William Desha, engineer at the Excelsior mills, was burned to death. Mayor France of this city, has lost a large number of rigs and over a hundred oil rigs have already been burned in this district. A message from Knapp's Creek says fifty rigs belonging to Curtis, Burns & Russell are destroyed. A line of fire has surrounded the town and the inhabitants fear total destruction. Everything at Knapp's Creek, including the Four-mile and Knapp's Creek districts between here and Bradford, and owners were paying $1 an hour for men to fight the fire.

STIFF WIND AT ORMSBY.
Bradford, Pa., June 4.—The fire at Ormsby is raging more fiercely than ever this morning. The place is without water protection of any kind and the flames are devouring a large area of standing timber. Saw mills and a number of houses have been consumed. Two car loads of empty barrels were shipped to Ormsby from here this morning to be used to convey water to the oil fields, which are now threatened. A stiff breeze is blowing and there is no telling what the outcome will be.

HURON'S INCENDIARY BLAZE.
Minneapolis, June 4.—A Huron, S. D., special to the Journal says: An incendiary fire early this morning destroyed six buildings on Dakota avenue. The most serious loss was C. Taul's $16,000 collection of models of patents. He had no insurance. The total loss was $20,000, with small insurance. Arrests of the guilty persons are promised by nightfall.

REACHED WEST BRANCH.
Bradford, Pa., June 4.—The fire has reached the oil fields at West Branch. A dense cloud of smoke has burst forth and it is reported that several wells and tanks are on fire.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS. State Convention Attendance Not Large Yet.

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—The prospect for a large attendance at the Democratic state convention tomorrow is not as bright today. The vast crowds that have been expected all along have not even begun to arrive, and the hotel registers show fewer names than on any Tuesday this session. It is expected that a small attendance of many legislators and lobbyists, fearing a jam at the hotels, have remained at home. The convention will be a success, the fact that few people are here does not disturb him. He says that there are no candidates to vote for and it would be useless for delegates to come a day or two in advance of the convention. He does not expect the large arrivals to begin before this evening.

Farmers all over the state are busy with crops and they want to lose as little time as possible. Then the weather in Springfield is intensely hot and it is not probable that many will have more time in crowded hotels than they have to. Hotels have all been engaged and the chances of a delegate's getting there have nothing but cots left. Among the arrivals today was H. C. Cleary, chairman of the national Populist central committee. He refused to be interviewed and would not discuss his position. He is also ex-Chicago mayor and a member of the committee on foreign relations has become very unpopular with the administration in the senate, and as a member of the committee on foreign relations has become very unpopular with the administration in the senate, and as a member of the committee on foreign relations has become very unpopular with the administration in the senate.

It is regarded as quite likely that Senator Gray's visit to Washington may have been in response to a message from the president, and it is possible he may have been offered the attorney generalship or consulted thereon. Senator Gray came over today and went directly to the White House to see the president. It was thought the visit was significant and an early announcement of Mr. Gray's appointment and probably that of his successor.

OVER A MILLION. Important Mining Suit Filed in San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 4.—A suit growing out of negotiations for the sale of the Hawthorne mine with other Tuolumne county mining property, and involving $2,000,000, has been begun in the superior court by N. F. Cleary, an attorney who represents Saunders, Irving & Bond, of London, New York and Chicago. The suit is against W. A. Seawell and Martin and John Ballard, Nevada miners, who have been restrained by Judge Seawell from selling the Gold gulch mining property, on which the plaintiff claims to have a right. The suit is an extension of time. Cleary states that the defendants owned the Gold Gulch mining property, and on August 1, 1900, they transferred the same to Cleary, who was to pay them $2,000,000 in cash and 5000 shares of stock in the company. An extension of time on the payment is claimed by Cleary, who says he was to pay $200,000 on July 1, of this year, and $1,800,000 on August 1. Now Cleary alleges that the defendants are trying to get out of the agreement, and he has obtained from Judge Seawell an order restraining them from making any other deal with the property.

In answer to the complaint very serious charges of bribery are made against Cleary. Mr. Seawell alleges that Cleary was offered $200,000 to defraud his partners, Messrs. Martin and Ballard, and that he accepted the same. Attorney Samuel Shortridge was also approached with offers of bribery to obtain the dismissal of the suit. Mr. Neville to play into Cleary's hands.

ALLIANCE AMENDS.
Washington, June 4.—The state department today received from United States Minister Taylor at Madrid the complete answer of Spain to the demand of Secretary Gresham for a disavowal of the firing of the Spanish gunboat, the Albatross. The answer, which was also accompanied by offers of bribery to obtain the dismissal of the suit. Mr. Neville to play into Cleary's hands.

WILL ACCEPT IT.
Massillon, Ohio, June 4.—Mass meetings were held throughout the Massillon district tomorrow morning to vote upon the question of resuming work in open camps at the rate of 50 cents. Local sentiment is very much divided and the vote will be close. It is learned that the secret will be accepted or rejected by a majority vote of all the miners and not by districts. Therefore, even though Massillon district should vote against a resumption, sentiment in the other districts is so strongly in favor of accepting the offer, that the whole question may be regarded as settled.

IN SOUTHERN NEW YORK.
Olean, N. Y., June 4.—One hundred and fifty men left here yesterday afternoon to fight the forest fires in the Four-mile and Knapp's Creek districts between here and Bradford, and owners were paying $1 an hour for men to fight the fire.

STIFF WIND AT ORMSBY.

Appointment Delayed in Order to Select an Attorney General.

Senator Gray, of Delaware, May Step Into Either Position.

Washington, June 4.—There is no longer any reasonable doubt but that the president has fully determined to ask Attorney General Olney to accept the state department portfolio.

While this is an undoubted fact, it is also certain that the president has not even intimated to Mr. Olney that this was his purpose. To other members of his cabinet, however, it is learned that he has stated in substance that he should ask Mr. Olney to accept the place, and that he was delaying the public announcement in order that he might at the same time name a successor to Mr. Olney as attorney general.

Persons in a position to know what the president's purposes are in respect to the early announcement of Mr. Olney's appointment and probably that of his successor. It is regarded as quite likely that Senator Gray's visit to Washington may have been in response to a message from the president, and it is possible he may have been offered the attorney generalship or consulted thereon. Senator Gray came over today and went directly to the White House to see the president. It was thought the visit was significant and an early announcement of Mr. Gray's appointment and probably that of his successor.

ST. PAUL SUICIDE. Drunken and Despondent Husband Hangs Himself.

St. Paul, June 4.—All that is mortal of John H. Koll was found this morning, hanging by a rope to a strong lamp hook in the front room of his home at 26 Summit place. The discovery was made by his wife, who had returned home from a neighbor's house to pack up the few remaining things in the house preparatory to her departure for the summer. The discovery was made by his wife, who had returned home from a neighbor's house to pack up the few remaining things in the house preparatory to her departure for the summer. MODERN WOODMEN. Head Camp Now in Session at Madison.

Madison, Wis., June 4.—The meeting of the head camp of Modern Woodmen convened here today with nearly a full representation, 271 delegates. After welcoming addresses by Speaker Burrows, Attorney General Myler, Gen. Fairchild and ex-Governor Hoard, and response by Chief Consul Northcott, committees were appointed. After the report of the committee on credentials, the reports of officers were filed. Head Consul Northcott said the terms just ended had exceeded all past periods in results. He favored strongly the establishment of a reserve or emergency fund, the most important question to come up at the meeting. He also favored the addition of New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Washington, and Oregon to Woodman territory, exclusive of cities of 200,000 or over.

MISS DODGE VERY WEAK.
Washington, June 4.—Miss Dodge is very weak this morning. Representative Hitt continues to improve.

REFUSED TO DRINK. It Caused a Murder and Suicide Today.

Allentown, Pa., June 4.—John Mullock, of Fountain Hill, this county, was shot and instantly killed today by Jacob Lucky in the presence of the former's 11-year-old son. The murderer then committed suicide. Lucky and Mullock were neighbors and worked together. When Mullock and his 11-year-old boy Calvin were going to work at 6 o'clock this morning they encountered Lucky. He tendered Mullock a drink from a bottle of whiskey in which he had put bichloride of mercury. Mullock refused, whereupon Lucky beat him with a club. Young Mullock threw a stone at Lucky, who drew a revolver and fired four shots at Mullock, taking effect in the head and left shoulder, causing instant death. Lucky then took a draught from the bottle of the poisoned whiskey, went home and hung himself to a tree with a clothes line. Lucky was jealous of Mullock because he gave Mrs. Lucky shelter when her husband's cruelty drove her from home. Each man was over 40 years old, and Mullock leaves a wife and three children.

Pittsburg, June 4.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania company was held here today. Of the $21,000,000 of stock $20,000,000 were represented largely by proxy. The old board of directors was re-elected and at a later meeting the following officers were chosen: President, G. B. Roberts; vice president, James McCrea, J. T. Brooks, J. E. Doudin; secretary, F. B. Light; treasurer, T. H. B. McKnight. The annual report of the directors for 1894 was submitted and approved. The mileage of lines west of Pittsburg operated by the company is about 1100. The results for 1894 to the proprietary company are as follows: Total revenue, $2,051,065; charges against the sum for repair, $1,785,542; net result being a loss for the year 1894, after saving all expenses, interest on bonded debt, rentals, advances, etc., of $367,476, as compared with a profit for the year 1893 of $1,650,476.

The results on the principal roads operated were as follows: The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago was a loss of $1,231,513, as compared with a profit in the preceding year of $313,772. The New Castle & Valley increased its net earnings $21,223 over 1893. The net earnings of the Pittsburg, Youngstown & Ashland railroad increased $18,219 as compared with 1893. The loss on the Erie & Pittsburgh railroad was $82,212, being a gain as compared with 1893 of $102,004. The loss on the Cleveland & Pittsburg was $55,452, while in 1893 the loss was $22,791. The net earnings of the Toledo, Walhonding Valley & Ohio railroad decreased $4933 as compared with 1893. The loss on the Indianapolis & Vincennes railroad was $109,658, while in 1893 the same road lost $105,785.

MINNESOTA CROPS. Recent Rains Have Stimulated a Fine Growth.

Minneapolis, June 4.—The crop bulletin issued today states that the weather has been extremely favorable for the development of plant life, averaging warmer than usual. Light to heavy showers have prevailed in nearly every part of the state, reviving and stimulating early planted corn, oats and potatoes. Other crops nipped by the late frosts. High winds during the early part of the week did some damage to corn, flax, and late sown fields, but the rains have repaired the damage considerably.

Wheat everywhere is making a rapid growth and promises a good report. Corn is all planted and in the center and southern sections is up from three to six inches, cultivation being in progress. Early planted corn is recovering from the frosts, while the late planted is in excellent condition. Some fields have been damaged by cut worms, and a few pieces planted on fall plowing and on light soil were ruined by the high winds.

MEXICAN BOUNDARY.
Washington, June 4.—The Mexican boundary commission has completed the work for the season and has submitted a partial report to the state department through Col. Anson Mills. The commission has been laying out the boundary between the United States and Mexico on the Rio Grande and has progressed as far as it can at this stage of the river. When the water reaches the low stage work will be resumed.

AN ALTON EXTENSION.
Peoria, June 4.—It is just developed that when General Manager Chapell, of the Chicago & Alton, was in this city a few days ago he was considering the present light business and heavy rentals and was feeling very uncertain about running through Peoria, for the present at least, but after his departure it was stated by a Peoria & Pekin official that the C. & A. would probably be running through Peoria in sixty days.

THE FERRY

No Contract Made For One to Operate Across the Canal.

City Weighman Must Report Names of Those Giving Short Weight.

D. Clint Prescott Appointed as a Library Board Member.

When President Howard rapped on his desk at the council meeting last night fourteen aldermen straightened upon their seats and disposed of the business of the night with rapidity. Alderman Westaway was the only absentee. The underground telephone or distance did not come up as the committee is not yet ready to report.

A motion was introduced authorizing the board of public works to advertise for bids for free ferryage service at Minnesota Point. This brought Alderman Harwood, the Great Objector, to his feet in a hurry.

"May I ask what kind of a ferry this is?" he asked, or what?

"The same as at present," replied President Howard.

Then Alderman Harwood registered a decided kick. He claimed a large and more commodious ferry should be secured. He was in favor of letting the matter lay over a week.

Alderman Trevillion then spoke in regard to the service. He explained that Charon Johnson, ever since Feb. 2, has been running passengers across the ferry without any contract whatever. In case of any accident occurring and damages being recovered from the city the council would be held responsible.

The question was then discussed of hiring a tug at $20 per day for a month each in the fall and spring. After some debate the original motion passed and the steam project was laid on its back.

"MAY I GIVE NAME," replied President Howard.

An ordinance was introduced by Alderman Ash, requiring that the city sewer should include in its list of names of all firms found giving short weights and measures.

Very Alderman Harwood arose with the fire of battle in his eye, and declared against the injustice done the poor men whose weights were wrong.

The shortages were usually the result of mistakes. Some times 200 or 300 pounds of coal would be given away, and the giver got no credit for it.

This excited some discussion, but the ordinance passed, 11 to 1.

The city engineer's report was read and approved, and was as follows:

After the discussion of some routine matters, the council adjourned.

LOST HIS EYES. A Two Harbors dispatch says that, while blasting on McCue's breakwater contract, Frank Alger, the foreman, and Jake Dalstrom, a Finlander,

lost his eyes. He was one of the most ready debaters that I have ever heard of, and he carried his point in a short speech in which he made use of language something like this:

"We don't want to go to Indiana. We don't want to go to any state that has a candidate for the presidency, and I don't want the Republican league in no condition to give an opportunity for another such break as that made by the brilliant ass from Ohio this morning."

That appellation stuck to Foraker for the remainder of the convention, and I never hear his name mentioned but I think of Dr. Barrett and the brilliant ass from Ohio.

DR. BARRETT'S SPEECH. How He Fired Hot Shot at Mr. Foraker.

The ascendancy in the Buckeye state of ex-senator Foraker and his friends, as evidenced by the nominations made last week, was the subject of conversation in a little group of politicians yesterday, says the Minneapolis Tribune. One of the party was quite well acquainted with the tall Ohioan and discussed his qualities as a political leader with more than common information and sympathy. There was another man in the party that did not know Foraker so well and did not like him as well as he knew him. To illustrate his point he told a little incident.

"When the Republican league convention was held in the summer of '91 at Channahon," he said, "I was one of the delegates. Another of the delegates was Dr. Fred Barrett, of Towler, who has recently been put under the seal. One of the best fellows I ever knew."

"We were having a hot time," he said, "just as the time as the present before the opening of a national campaign, when there was all kinds of maneuvering for an advantage for one or the other of the several possible candidates."

Harrison was president and there was a general feeling that he was putting all his best efforts into trying to be re-nominated. Blaine was in the campaign, and he was a candidate for the presidency, but spoken of by many of the people as the only man who was not against any candidate. It is for the party and its principles. I imagine then the feeling which was stirred up when Foraker in the principal speech of the day, covertly attacked Harrison by an allusion something like this:

"We are proud, Mr. President, of our country and its history; we are proud of the Republic which we have had such a large share in shaping that history and do so much for the advancement of human liberty and progress."

"Then there was a pause of a moment. 'Our brilliant secretary of state, James E. Blaine,'"

"This unexpected slight to the Republican president of the United States in the course of his friends' speech, names of all firms found giving short weights and measures."

Very Alderman Harwood arose with the fire of battle in his eye, and declared against the injustice done the poor men whose weights were wrong.

The shortages were usually the result of mistakes. Some times 200 or 300 pounds of coal would be given away, and the giver got no credit for it.

I imagine then the feeling which was stirred up when Foraker in the principal speech of the day, covertly attacked Harrison by an allusion something like this:

"We are proud, Mr. President, of our country and its history; we are proud of the Republic which we have had such a large share in shaping that history and do so much for the advancement of human liberty and progress."

"Then there was a pause of a moment. 'Our brilliant secretary of state, James E. Blaine,'"

"This unexpected slight to the Republican president of the United States in the course of his friends' speech, names of all firms found giving short weights and measures."

Very Alderman Harwood arose with the fire of battle in his eye, and declared against the injustice done the poor men whose weights were wrong.

The shortages were usually the result of mistakes. Some times 200 or 300 pounds of coal would be given away, and the giver got no credit for it.

This excited some discussion, but the ordinance passed, 11 to 1.

The city engineer's report was read and approved, and was as follows:

City engineer's report, $2,198.01
Health department, $34.10
Board of public works, $21.65

THE U. S. Government officially reports ROYAL Baking Powder superior to all others in leavening strength.

(Bulletin 13, Ag'l Dep't, p. 599.)

Engineer and inspectors, 1,222.91
Maintenance streets, sewers, etc., 4,159.58
Assessors, 928.00
Police department, 4,326.00
Fire department, 6,948.50
The appointment of D. Clint Prescott as a member of the library board in place of Dwight Woodbridge was received from the board of city treasurer.

The bond of $100,000 of City Treasurer Fred Voss was approved. The treasurer's report was as follows:

General fund, balance, $267,305.97; permanent improvement overdraft, $56,385.16; fire department overdraft, $34,772.50; library balance, $11,574.58; park balance, $49,654.34.

After the discussion of some routine matters, the council adjourned.

LOST HIS EYES. A Two Harbors dispatch says that, while blasting on McCue's breakwater contract, Frank Alger, the foreman, and Jake Dalstrom, a Finlander,

lost his eyes. He was one of the most ready debaters that I have ever heard of, and he carried his point in a short speech in which he made use of language something like this:

"We don't want to go to Indiana. We don't want to go to any state that has a candidate for the presidency, and I don't want the Republican league in no condition to give an opportunity for another such break as that made by the brilliant ass from Ohio this morning."

That appellation stuck to Foraker for the remainder of the convention, and I never hear his name mentioned but I think of Dr. Barrett and the brilliant ass from Ohio.

So, voyagers and commercial travelers or tourist seeking pleasure and health, should not fail to procure this grand tonic, stomachic, and health-giving tonic, stomachic, which counteracts the fatigue of travel and the discomforts of the stomach, and is a rough weather at sea, and sometimes a relief to the traveler who is weary and fatigued.

Summing Up by the Attorneys in the McKinley Case Today.Judge Shaw and Mr. Murray
for the Plaintiffs This Morning.Attorney Billson Began the Argument for the Plaintiff This Afternoon.

When the McKinley case was taken up in the United States court after the noon adjournment yesterday, Mr. Bil-son cross-examined Richard A. Parker a few moments. C. M. Boss, mayor of Duluth, Mich., was next placed on the stand. He gave it as his opinion that there is 1000 tons of ore on the fee lands, of which only 400,000 tons is Bessemer ore. He considered none of the ore on the leased lands merchantable, and placed the value of a four-fifths interest in the fee lands at from $100,000
to $100,000.

C. B. Bailey was the next witness, and he placed the amount of ore on the fee lands even lower than the others, estimating a four-fifths interest to be worth between $50,000 and $60,000, with possibilities of $80,000 more, or about $100,000 in all. He could see no value in the Pettit & Robinson lease other than a speculative one.

E. Dickinson estimated the ore on the fee lands at 600,000 tons, of which, he considered 472,482 tons merchantable.
He considered the lease of no value.
Lewis J. Morrill placed the value of the fee lands at not over $125,000 to $150,000.

E. Florida, of the Oliver mine, was called for the defense and estimated the ore on the fee lands at 1,000,000 tons, of which 40 per cent is marketable.
He stated positively that he never saw Mr.
Cotton at all.

MR. COTTON CONTRADICTED.
The plaintiff then began the rebuttal testimony. Some of the testimony was quite interesting. John McKinley was put on the stand and testified that he (McKinley) was in Cotton's office on Sept. 6, 1893, the day after the contract was signed and that he saw Mr. Cotton getting bonds and the Merritts getting their stock at 50 cents.

Mr. McKinley testified that his child died on the 3rd and that he left the city on the 5th, the day the contract was signed and did not return for two weeks and then went away again after a day or so and was gone several months.

MR. MURRAY TESTIFIED.
On cross-examination Mr. Murray
asked the witness:
"Is it not a fact that you have a very bitter feeling against Mr. Gates?"
"I have," replied the witness promptly.

"Is it not also a fact that you have a very bitter feeling against Hulett Merritt?"
"I have," Mr. Merritt responded.

Alfred Merritt and Lord Merritt also testified that they never informed the plaintiffs prior to Sept. 5, 1893, of the terms on which the Merritt properties
were going into the Consolidated.

ADMITTED HIS BITTERNESS.
On cross-examination Mr. Murray
asked the witness:
"Is it not a fact that you have a very bitter feeling against Mr. Gates?"

"I have," replied the witness
promptly.

"Is it not also a fact that you have a very bitter feeling against Hulett Merritt?"
"I have," Mr. Merritt responded.

Alfred Merritt and Lord Merritt also
testified that they never informed the
plaintiffs prior to Sept. 5, 1893, of the
terms on which the Merritt properties
were going into the Consolidated.

Jury had no right to be influenced by the fact that these plaintiffs are Minnesotans and the others are not. This does not enter into the case, and no considerations of that sort should weigh with the jury. He declared that upon the plaintiffs' own testimony they learned in the fall of 1893 that they were debauded, assuming their allegiance to be true, and yet accepted and received for the Consolidated stock in December, 1893. In closing he expressed his confidence in the jury and his thanks for their careful attention.

Mr. Murray consumed about thirty-five minutes and discussed the question of the value of the property and the plaintiffs' testimony. The plaintiffs,
he claimed, produced boomer and speculators to testify to the value of the property, whereas the defendant company introduced only testimony of mining engineers, men of education, competency and independent practice. He asked if Mr. McKinley had not testified that he told Mr. Gates with misrepresentation.

"There is more to be considered than this," he said.

THE LIBRARY BOARD.

Officers Elected and the Hours
Again Changed.

The regular monthly meeting of the library board was held last night.
Little special business was discussed.
The officers were re-elected as follows:
President, Giles Gilbert; vice president,
H. C. Helm; secretary, Miss Scott. All the standing committees were re-appointed and the librarian's monthly report read. Over a thousand dollars worth of new books including a valuable complete set of the North American Review, were added during the month.

The hours during which the library will be kept open are changed to from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. The former closing hour was 8 p. m., but the poor patronage late in the evening caused the change.

Being Tried Again.

The morning in the municipal court was taken up by the second trial of Fred Ceyrowsky vs. Duluth Street Railroad company for damages for injuries claimed to have been received by the plaintiff. The accident occurred
Jan. 8 at the corner of Fifty-fifth avenue west and Nicollet street. The first trial was two months ago and a verdict rendered for the plaintiff for a small sum. Ceyrowsky alleges carelessness on the part of the railroad company. Attorney Woods represented the company and Attorney Edson for the plaintiff. The case was still on at the noon recess.

Calendar of Court Cases is Being Quickly Cleared.

The day's setting of court cases in district court does not last very long these days, not more than three or four out of a dozen cases coming to trial. The rest are either continued or passed to the foot because the attorneys are busy elsewhere. Yesterday Judge Lewis took the case of the Merchant's National Bank, of Midland, Mich., against M. H. Stanford under advisement, and Judge Moore rendered judgment in favor of the Scott & Holston Lumber company against J. H.
Brigham et al.

This morning the case of E. S.
Schlebe against George Cote was decided for the defendant in Judge Lewis' room, there being no appearance on the part of the plaintiff. The case of
at The Craney Ordway company received judgment for foreclosure of a material lien for $239.50 against I. M.
Lafans et al in Judge Moore's court.

Rehearing Denied.

The supreme court has denied a rehearing in the water works case and the decision against the purchase stands. This means that the deal for the purchase of the water works is ended and that if the plant is to be secured another election must be held.

Was no Robbery.

The body of William J. Dunoon, who was killed in a runaway accident Memorial day, was not robbed, as was reported to the police by his sister, Mrs.
Jennie Barman, of 622 West Superior street. The principal ground for thinking the body had been rifled was the disappearance of a check on the American Exchange bank for $8 signed by Joseph Dwyer, which was thought to have been in Dunoon's possession. The bank was notified to stop payment. This morning the check, properly endorsed, came through the clearing house, having been deposited by Mrs. Barman in the regular course of business. The robbery theory is, of course, exploded.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness,
and that is by the use of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

Democratic State Conven-

Gloomy Story of Bourbon Rerichsen's Speech.

Ex-Congressman Hunter's Harsh Arraignment of Cleveland.

Springfield, Ill., June 5.—With every train which came in today came large delegations of delegates to the Democratic state convention. The fear of the leaders last night that the attendance would be small was soon allayed. More people came than anyone expected, and today the streets were thronged with silverites from all parts of the state.
Blue badges bearing the inscription:
"Free silver 16 to 1," fluttered from the biceps of coats of lacemakers, and many delegates carried banners declaring their belief in free coinage of silver on a basis of 16 to 1 of gold. During the night the weather became cool and today light summer coats were not heavy enough for comfort. It is the first time in the memory of the oldest politician of the state that the weather has been anything but sweltering here during a convention. The delegates that came in yesterday and last night were almost with the sun this morning, and enthusiastic silver speakers by the thousands were in evidence. The delegates believers in free coinage could be heard in the lobbies of all the hotels.
Every delegate seemed to be for free coinage of silver, and if there were any opposed to it they were so few or so quiet as not to be noticeable. There is no doubt in the mind of anyone but that a radical free silver platform will be adopted, and that the Democratic party of this state will be committed to that policy.

In calling the convention to order,
Chairman Hinrichsen spoke as follows:
"Before stating the business of this convention, it is proper that I should give briefly the reasons of the state central committee for calling you together. When the present committee was organized last January it found the Democratic party of the state in a deplorable condition. At the November elections thousands of its members had voted the Republican ticket, thousands had voted the Populist ticket, while others refused to vote any ticket. In fact, with the exception of a few, the party had no office holders, there seemed to be but little left of a party which had carried the state by over 20,000 plurality two years before.

The situation demanded the most energetic action on the part of the state committee, and an investigation for the causes for the defeat. It was found that the most general cause of a complaint was that congress had failed to establish a permanent currency for our country, and that even in their attempts to do so our representatives had not reflected the real sentiments of their constituents. The president and each member of congress had interpreted the currency plank of the platform of 1892 to nullify himself, and it was evident that most of them had tried to carry out the wishes of a minority rather than a majority of the party.

"The currency question was found to be the most common subject of discussion among the people, and it was easy to see that that would be the great issue in the next campaign. Silver clubs were being formed all over the country, and conventions of silver Democrats were being called in the counties and the organization of the national silver party at Washington threatened to take from us the last forty cent remaining of our demoralized party. The situation was grave one. The president and other Democrats in high position seemed determined to follow the policy of which the rank and file of the party were opposed.
The silver question was not to be won by the people in its financial policy, and the committee, in planning a campaign of education, found that one side or the other must win. It had not the placard of the party, and it was evident that a policy, so in its trouble it determined upon the Democratic plan of asking the people for instructions, and so this convention was called.

"The question has been asked, why was the convention called so early? It is easily answered, for there were good reasons. One was to forestall the action of the national silver party, and the action of the national silver party was the question, and so brought on Democratic defeat. This was one of the mistakes of President Cleveland that the committee did not care to imitate.
"It has been asserted that this convention had no right to pass upon a national question of this kind. Such an assertion is a mere fancy, and the delegates of the national convention of 1892, who can be seen in the basins for a campaign of education to be carried on by the state committee to the end that the party will be united on one common object. The committee has been severely criticized for calling this convention so early. The worst have been suggested, the vilest epithets have been used, and men have not hesi-tated to say through the press that the action of the committee was irregular, illegal and destructive.

"The committee has had but little to say in reply to these attacks, and has avoided any personalities that might drive any good Democrat out of the party, but I feel it my duty at this time and place to make a denial of all these charges. The action of the committee was strictly regular and according to party precedent. I think I have shown clearly that it was necessary for the good of the party, and that it is approved by the party is shown by the hearty response it has met with from the people.

"Now I believe a man may be a good Democrat and be in favor of any form of currency until the party platform has been built. He may be a gold bug and be a good Democrat. He may be a bimetallist and be a good Democrat; he may be a greenbacker and be a good Democrat, but the man who says and believes that the state committee had no right to call on the people for instruction or who says and believes that this convention has no right to assemble and discuss the question, has not one drop of Democratic blood in his veins and has no right or place in the Democratic party.

"This convention was not called for the purpose of reading any man out of the party, nor has the committee or any member concerned in the call,
given utterance to any expression that would indicate any such intention. On the contrary, every effort has been made to prevent anything like a rupture in the Democratic ranks. At the same time, the committee has resolved that if a man would not leave us to control the masses, either by means of force or by threats, we would leave him, and now that they have so evidently failed to accomplish their purpose and decided to leave us, we can only bid them good-bye and wish them better luck in bossing the opposing party.

"Gentlemen, you have responded to the call of the committee in coming here today, and I hope that you will further action will serve to unite them on one common object and enable us to again write ourselves the majority party in the state and in the nation.
JUDGE HUNTER SPEAKS.

Hon. Andrew Hunter, of Paris, ex-congressman-at-large from Illinois, said:
"We are here because of the efforts of Mr. Cleveland to force the Democratic party to accept as the law of 1873 on the money question. Those who have

BIMETALLISM ABROAD.

The gold standard organs in this country make but little reference to the growth of bimetalism in other countries, yet it is a fact that in Germany, in France and in England the bimetallic sentiment is increasing with a rapidity that is astonishing and it is even claimed that the feeling in England in favor of bimetalism is stronger than it is in this country. Hon. W. C. Whitney, who is a successful financier and a keen observer, has just returned from a visit to England where he had good opportunities for studying the popular feeling on the financial question. The gold standard organs will hardly charge Mr. Whitney as "unsound" on the money issue, and they will find it very difficult to say anything in reply to the statements which he has made since his return from the other side of the ocean. In an interview in New York Mr. Whitney said: "I believe from what I saw and heard that the feeling in favor of bimetalism is stronger in Great Britain than it is in the United States. The students of political economy favor it. The business of trade in the large manufacturing centers like Birmingham and Sheffield have taken a firm stand in favor of a bimetallic standard. Even among the Conservative statesmen may be found its champions, notably among whom is A. J. Balfour. In fact, the only opposition to bimetalism in Great Britain proceeds from the same source that it does in this country, from the men who stand in the same relation to trade as do the men in Wall street. The other countries of Europe are looking to England to take the initiative in this matter and they believe that within two years at the most England will be calling for an international monetary conference, if not for an international agreement for the establishment of a bimetallic standard of money."

A recent London dispatch says that the English bimetallic league is pressing its crusade with great vigor, and has a very imposing list of members both in numbers and business and political prominence. Its president is Henry Gibbs, a director of the Bank of England. As the chairman of the general council it has H. R. Grenfell. Mr. McNeill, the secretary, says that Mr. McNeill, the famous ex-governor of the bank, is a member. Besides Arthur Balfour, it numbers many prominent politicians and influential persons, including the dukes of Aberdeen, Effo and Beaufort, Jacob Bright, Sir Lepel Griffin, Henniker Heaton, Lord Rawson, Disraeli's former adjutant, as well as the young Disraeli. Sir Henry James, attorney general in Salisbury's cabinet, and Henry Chaplin, a member of the same cabinet, Knatchbull Huggeson and many other members of parliament.

Among the bankers and business men of London belonging to the league there are Charles and Alfred Hoare, Thomas Baring, Sir Thomas Sangerland, chairman of the Peninsula and Oriental Steamship company; Sir Samuel Montagu and many others. It is well known that the movement has the warm sympathy of the Rothschilds. As the Boston Globe says, it is no chimeric that these hard-headed business like Englishmen hope to attain. "The English advocates of true bimetalism—the use of both gold and silver—realize that the financial question is a world question. Like their zealous and persistent co-workers in Germany, they believe that the restoration of silver to the money of the world, by agreement of nations, is in the line of practical achievement, and can be attained if its friends all over the world will follow the good maxim, 'a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together.'"

The Berlin correspondent of the Chicago Record writes that the growth of bimetalism in Germany has been a curious spectacle. It took its rise, of course, in the intensely agricultural districts, especially in the Eastern provinces of Prussia, for, right or wrong, the farmers and owners of large estates attribute the undoubtable agricultural depression in large measure to the gold standard adopted by Germany soon after the Franco-German war, which brought an influx of French gold milliards into the country, up to that time a silver one. The agitation in favor of a re-establishment of silver as money has been going on for years, but it has come to a culmination only during the present legislative session. As the whole right, being the chief support of the government in diet and reichstag, has endorsed the demand of the agrarian party in favor of bimetalism, and as the center, too, is taking the same way, there seems small doubt at this writing that Germany will take the lead in calling an international monetary conference, hoping for the support of the United States and France in bringing enough pressure to bear upon Great Britain to induce that chief power to join in an international agreement as to the remonetization of silver.

The silver question is to come up for discussion before the bundestag this week at the instance of Prince von Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, and with the cooperation of the Prussian ministry, and there is no doubt that a resolution will be adopted in favor of bimetalism and urging the chancellor to take steps at once to call an international conference and to secure the adhesion of Great Britain to this method of reaching an agreement that will include all the leading nations. These are facts that the gold standard men in the United States carefully avoid discussing. They would have the people in this country believe that there is no sentiment abroad in favor of silver and that the agitation of the silver question here will scare off foreign investors and produce another panic or something worse. The fact that the president of the British bimetallic league is a director of the Bank of England—an institution that is viewed by our gold idolaters as the embodiment of financial wisdom—is convincing proof that the movement here in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money cannot have any evil effects, so far as the driving away of foreign capital is concerned.

CHEAP AND CORRUPT.

The Michigan legislature which adjourned last week must have been decidedly rotten in concern, if the reports published in the newspapers of that state are correct, and there is no reason to believe that they are misrepresenting the facts. The Detroit News says: "If the testimony of the kind of men who have to do with such bodies is of any account, it was the cheapest crowd that has sat in Lansing for years. One vote is said to have been influenced upon a great moral question by a $5 bill. Another case is reported of a legislator selling himself to one of a controversy affecting a corporation, and afterwards selling out to the opposition for thrice as much as he received from his first tempter. Whether such gossip as this be true or not, this much remains, that the lobby has at all times been able to secure a majority of house and senate at any time that it exerted itself until the final hours of the body, when in the face of release from the bondage of the master, there seems to have been some bit of independence of the powers that be."

This is a lamentable state of affairs. The question is, what are the people of Michigan going to do about it? It is their own fault that such a corrupt legislature was brought into existence, they elected the men who composed the legislature, they have it in their power to prevent these men being returned to that body to again disgrace and betray them. They have the power also to select upright, honest and able men to represent them in the legislature, and they are able to elect the men who will be susceptible to bribes and who will look after the interests of the whole people and not of the corporations alone. Will they do it, or will they again elect the old cheap, corrupt and disgraceful gang that has just adjourned at Lansing?

PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

The monthly report of the Duluth public library shows that nearly 9000 books were circulated during May, which was about 1000 less than during April, owing to the warm weather. These figures should be very gratifying to every person who takes an interest in the library, because they furnish conclusive evidence that the library is fully appreciated by the people of Duluth, and they are availing themselves of the benefits which it offers. The showing, in comparison with the large cities, is very creditable to Duluth. In St. Paul the total number of books circulated during May was about 14,500, yet St. Paul claims a population four times greater than that of Duluth. The library figures show that the people here are greater readers or that the population of St. Paul does not exceed that of Duluth so largely as the people of the Saintly city claim.

Discussing the growth of the larger public libraries of the country, a writer in Harper's Weekly very correctly refers to the present time as a library era. The trustees of the Boston public library have voted to buy, or to try to buy, the collection of philological works gathered by the late Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte. The collection includes about 20,000 volumes, in 120 languages and more than 1000 dialects. Most of the great libraries of the world covet it, and several of them have tried to buy it piecemeal. If the Boston library gets it, it will attest the earnest purpose of the trustees to live up to their moral decorations. New Hampshire, the first state to authorize the raising of money by taxation to be spent for books, has lately passed a law directing that every town in the state shall raise a certain amount annually for that purpose.

Some one, says the writer in Harper's, was suggesting the other day that the current quarter of this century in America would come to be known in time to come as the library age. This new New Hampshire law favors that concept. The growth of public libraries, especially in the last decade, has been marvelous. The Boston library has spread itself to the admiration of the whole country; congress has built the huge palace for the congressional library; the three New York libraries have combined into the New York "logical candidate." But it is a fact that few "logical candidates" are nominated, and in this case it is very doubtful if the gentlemen named are the "logical candidates" of their parties.

DEFEAT PREFERABLE.

It is not likely that there is any truth in the story published in the Twin Cities that ex-Governor Merriam will succeed Thomas H. Carter as chairman of the republican national campaign committee. Certainly, if the Republicans of Minnesota have any voice in this matter, and they will probably have something to say about it, Mr. Merriam will never have anything to do with the management of the national campaign. The people of Minnesota—certainly the Republican voters of Minnesota—have had enough of Merriam methods in politics, and they want no more of them. The application of the same methods to the national campaign would be disastrous to the republican party in the nation and would properly condemn the party to a disgraceful defeat. The moral sense of the nation would revolt at such methods, just as the moral sense of the Minnesota people has revolted at their application in this state.

If the Republicans cannot win the next presidential election without the aid of "Bill" Merriam and his political methods, they are in a sad state indeed, and it were better far that they should go down to honorable defeat than win by dishonor. The Republican party cannot afford to have Mr. Merriam or any other politician of his stamp at the head of its campaign committee.

ATKIN COUNTY BOOMING.

Deputy State Auditor Iverson, who has been on a trip through Atkin county, has been telling the St. Paul reporters about the rapidity with which that county is developing. Three hundred settlers took up farms last year and from the present outlook they will be at least 1000 new farms started this year. There are several solid townships of the best farming land, and in addition to the desirable tracts of government land that can be had for the asking there are some of the best state lands which can be purchased at low prices. "With Duluth but a few miles away," says Mr. Iverson, "the products of the farm will find a ready and profitable market, and it is only a question of a few years when Atkin county will rival the flourishing counties in Southern Minnesota."

If Mr. Iverson had continued his investigations into the other counties in the great region tributary to Duluth, he would have found a similar state of affairs. It has been a mistaken idea that the country immediately west of Duluth is unfit for agricultural purposes. The fact is that there is no finer farming land in the Northwest. The people are rapidly finding this out and the result is a rush of settlers who will add largely to the population and wealth of Northern Minnesota. There is no section of the whole country that presents such inviting opportunities.

The story that Oscar Wilde has gone crazy and is confined in a padded room is not improbable. There is no doubt that he was overwhelmed with shame by being convicted of such gross indecencies and this fact, combined with the prospect of a long term of imprisonment at hard labor, has unbalanced his reason. And yet there must have been a streak of insanity in a man who would indulge in the indecent acts of which he was proven guilty.

There are only two papers in the Northwest that now take the United Press news report. All the others have discarded the United Press for the report furnished by the Associated Press, the greatest news-gathering association in the country.

A Dakota woman in suing for divorce because her husband, during courtship, claimed that he was a college graduate, and that his principal delight was to read Dante in the original, and she has now discovered that he does not know Italian enough to tell her what a "filoso" is, in view of the marriage that she made, it does not seem reasonable that she needs any explanation of what a filoso is.

Every person who can spare the time should attend the reception at the Spaulding tonight to Congressman Herndon of Oregon. He will probably be the chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of the next house, and he will be in a position to aid Congressman Towne materially in securing necessary appropriations for improving Duluth harbor.

The New York Sun says David B. Hill is the Democracy's "logical candidate" for 1896, and Senator Thurston says William McKinley is the Republic's "logical candidate." But it is a fact that few "logical candidates" are nominated, and in this case it is very doubtful if the gentlemen named are the "logical candidates" of their parties.

The establishment of a line of steamers from the Pacific coast to China is said to be President J. J. Hill's latest scheme. This would enable the Great Northern to compete with the Canadian Pacific for business from the Orient, and it is not an improbable story.

This is the season when the "unknown" spirit makes his annual appearance, but if past experience counts for anything it will be difficult for any one to work the double cross game in Duluth this year.

It will be reassuring to the people of New York that Dick Crocker does not intend to make his residence in London but will come home at every election to cast his vote.

If there are sixteen children of school age living at the lower end of Minnesota Point they certainly should be provided with school facilities. They are entitled to that much.

Tams Bixby will emulate Chauncey Depew and give a harmony dinner to the Minnesota delegates to the league convention. Like Chauncey, Tams is a "peach."

If other sections have had as great a rainfall as Duluth has enjoyed recently, there is not the slightest danger of drought.

The St. Paul ball team won another game yesterday. The unusual event is being duly celebrated in the Saintly City.

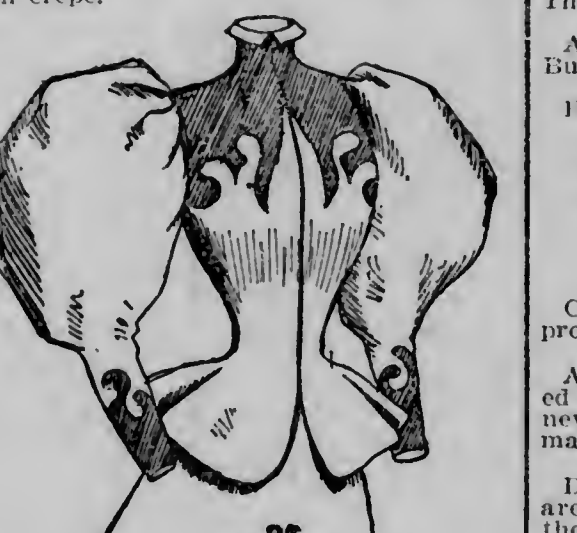

The latest report from Washington is that Mr. Olney will become the premier of the cabinet.

AN ABLE CONGRESSMAN.

Superior Leader: The Pioneer Press acknowledges that the Duluth congressman is brilliant, in which it voices the sentiment entertained in the Twin Cities two years ago, when Mr. Towne delivered his address at the World's fair on Minnesota day. That speech was then considered to be the finest among the Minnesota delegation. The hearers of the lakes will have an able congressman in Charles A. Towne.

A MODERN PEGASUS.

A bicycle is better than a horse to ninety-nine men and women out of a hundred, says the Chicago Tribune. It is better, because it costs almost nothing to keep, and it is never tired. It will take you three times as far as a horse in the same number of days or weeks. It is better, because it can make fifty miles a day as comfortably as twenty miles on foot, and it can carry all the clothing it needs, besides a camera and other amusements, or more so, with the great advantage that you can get over uninteresting tracts of country twice as fast as on foot. In fact, as any bicyclist knows, walking seems intolerably slow

EIGHT PARDONS.

Various Offenders Set Free by the President.

Washington, June 6.—The president has pardoned eight persons today. They are as follows: Walter Evans, convicted in 1893 in the United States court for the eastern district of Texas and sentenced to two years imprisonment; Arthur W. W. Williams, convicted in California for forging United States postal money orders and sentenced Feb. 1, 1894, to two years imprisonment; Thomas Triplett, convicted in Illinois of altering and passing United States notes, pardon granted to restore citizenship; Wiley Kirk, convicted in Missouri of having failed to register as a retail dealer in leaf tobacco and sentenced to two years imprisonment; Andy Colbert and Osborn Dunford, each sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Indian territory for horse stealing, pardoned on account of ill health; Andy Bowen and Penny Frazer, sentenced in Arkansas to eighteen months each for illicit distilling, pardoned in view of light sentences inflicted for like offenses.

The president has denied a pardon in the case of Stephens Russell, convicted in Arkansas for murder in Indian territory and sentenced to be hanged, but sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life by President Harrison April 11, 1893. President Cleveland says that in his opinion the prisoner was mercifully treated when his life was spared.

Two of America's Richest Families United in Wedding Today.

James Abercrombie Burden and Florence Adele Sloane, Married.

A Nuptial Ceremony Which Was Regal in Its Completion.

Lenox, Mass., June 6.—Two of the richest families of America were united today, when in the beautiful Trinity church James A. Burden, Jr., and Miss Florence Adele Sloane were married. The most elaborate preparations had been made for the event. About 200 guests were under the care of Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas Sloane, who had taken pains that all those bidden to the ceremony should be entertained entirely by the father and mother of the bride. The church was trimmed with white and green, the colors of the Porcelain club, the most exclusive organization at Harvard, of which Mr. Burden is a member. The ushers were all members of the class of '93 at Harvard with the groom, and were the sons of prominent men. Lewis Adams, Rufus K. Thomas, George Blake, George Richmond Pearson and Columbus C. Baldwin, the bridesmaids were Misses Emily and Lila Sloane, sisters of the bride, and Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt and Miss Beatrice Bend. The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Twombly and Miss Jessie Edmonds. Frederick Winthrop was best man.

The bride's dress was of white, of heavy satin, ivory colored, trimmed with point lace. The bride veil was of very rare old lace fastened at the crown of her head with a bunch of orange blossoms. The service was read by Rev. W. Governor, rector Trinity church, and the blessing was given by Rev. Dr. John Hall, of New York. Directly after the ceremony traps were in readiness to convey the guests to Elm college at Lenox country place of Mr. and Mrs. Sloane. Here the bridal breakfast was served. Among those present was W. K. Vanderbilt, of New York. A dance will be given this evening by Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes. The wedding guests will attend this affair, and tomorrow they will return to their homes by special train.

The bride is the grand-daughter of Mrs. William Vanderbilt and daughter of William D. Sloane. The bridegroom, James Abercrombie Burden, Jr., is a fortune originated in the great iron works at Troy, N. Y., bearing the name. He is himself a millionaire and has been a prominent figure in New York society for several seasons.

Various Offenders Set Free by the President.

Washington, June 6.—The president has pardoned eight persons today. They are as follows: Walter Evans, convicted in 1893 in the United States court for the eastern district of Texas and sentenced to two years imprisonment; Arthur W. W. Williams, convicted in California for forging United States postal money orders and sentenced Feb. 1, 1894, to two years imprisonment; Thomas Triplett, convicted in Illinois of altering and passing United States notes, pardon granted to restore citizenship; Wiley Kirk, convicted in Missouri of having failed to register as a retail dealer in leaf tobacco and sentenced to two years imprisonment; Andy Colbert and Osborn Dunford, each sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Indian territory for horse stealing, pardoned on account of ill health; Andy Bowen and Penny Frazer, sentenced in Arkansas to eighteen months each for illicit distilling, pardoned in view of light sentences inflicted for like offenses.

MATTERS IN FORMOSA.

Ninety Chinese Killed by a Magazine Explosion.

Hong Kong, June 6.—Advices received here from Talpehu, Island of Formosa, describe affairs in that town as still in a chaotic condition. During the conflagration a magazine exploded and killed ninety Chinese. The German gunboat Itis fired on the Chinese forts at Hobe, because a merchant steamer with Chinese on board, the native gunners fled. Subsequently the merchant steamer proceeded. The British cruiser Rainbow left this morning for Tamsui.

Van Leuven's Case.

President Cleveland Refuses to Pardon the Convict.

Washington, June 6.—The president has denied the application for pardon in the case of George M. Van Leuven, who was convicted of violation of the pension laws by the United States district court of Iowa, and sentenced Dec. 12, to two years imprisonment. Van Leuven was fined $1000. This was quite a celebrated case. Van Leuven was indicted for perjury.

His pardon is asked on account of ill health, his physician and the warden of the prison writing to his secretary to that effect. In denying the application for a pardon, the president says: "This is a case of perjury, and I do not think the representations as to his health are sufficient to justify his pardon."

SPAIN MAY SEEK DAMAGES.

London, June 6.—The Standard today contains an intimation to the effect that when the insurrection in Cuba is ended, Spain will request the United States to pay part of the costs of suppressing it, adding: "There is small chance of Spain's success in this regard, as the United States have been cognizant of it. The country which claimed and obtained damages from England, in 1895, for the destruction of the South by armed vessels which were allowed to leave this country should be the last to allow arms to leave her shores and incite against Spain."

GROVER'S BUSY TIME.

Washington, June 6.—The president is doing all his time to closing up the business before he leaves Washington, so that he may have a few weeks of recreation when he goes to Gray Gables. The business now chiefly engrossing his attention is the filing of cabinet and office vacancies and the examination of charges against office holders.

Today he received a number of callers. Among the first was attorney General Olney, who remained a short time. Shortly afterwards Acting Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Smith, called and remained some time. Several congressmen also saw the president.

CUT WORKS IN NEBRASKA.

Omaha, June 6.—A special to the Bee from North Loup, Neb., says: A number of farmers in this vicinity are reporting that portions of their corn fields are being ravaged by cut worms. In some cases, almost the entire crop is being taken over limited areas. It is thought, however, that this has been largely owing to the prevalence of the pest dry weather, and that since the rainy season has set in the difficulty will speedily terminate.

MURDERERS STOOD MUTE.

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—Dr. Dennis J. Seaman and Mrs. Alice Lane, charged with the murder of Emily Hall, the English girl sent to this country by Rev. Jonathan Bell, were arraigned before Judge Chapin today. Both defendants refused to plead. Their trials will take place in about two weeks.

BIG MUDDY IS HIGH.

Omaha, June 6.—For the first time in almost a year the Muddy river is running bank full at Omaha and is within ten feet of the danger line. This is the result of the recent rains in the state. Every river in Nebraska is on the point of overflowing and all bottom lands are flooded.

WILL JOIN LEUT. PEARY.

Kansas City, June 6.—A special from Lawrence, Kan., says a letter from Peary, Greenland, about July 1 and accompany them to Peary's camp as naturalists for the American museum.

CORNELL

America's College Oarsmen Comfortably Settled on the Thames.

Englishmen Say the Crew is Too Light This Year For Winners.

But the Cornell Boys Expect to Win the Henley Regatta.

Henley-on-Thames, Eng., June 6.—The Cornell crew of oarsmen, which is to compete at the Henley regatta in the contest for the grand visitors challenge cup, arrived here from Southampton today and were greatly pleased with the quarters which Commodore W. T. Hastings, of the Cornell navy secured for them on a hill at Underwood, a pretty little place overlooking the Thames and situated about a quarter of a mile from here.

The two paper shells arrived here with the crew and after they had been carefully examined everybody was pleased to see that they had sustained no damage during the trip across the Atlantic. The weather this afternoon is beautiful and the villagers assembled in force on the banks of the Thames when the crew took their first spin over the course. The young men created a favorable impression among the onlookers, but the expert Britishers expressed the opinion that they were too light.

A representative of the Associated Press had an interview with a member of the Cornell crew, who said: "The boys are very confident, but I am not. It is a direct contrast to our canal, which afforded easy rowing." When asked about the alleged lightness of the crew the informant remarked: "They were selected with that very thing in view. We wish here we must do so in a spurt, and the lightness will be an advantage. The boys are greatly pleased with all arrangements."

Commodore W. T. Hastings, of the Cornell navy, in conversation said: "We have our own servants, do our own catering and cooking and the house is in every way convenient and healthy. Mr. C. S. Francis, manager of the Cornell, has had frequent visits to the expressed views similar to those of the gentlemen previously questioned regarding the prospects of the crew and the accommodations."

Vain are the attacks of beaten competitors on Dr. Price's baking powder. Its advance cannot be checked.

ECUADOR'S BROT.

Revolutionists Succeed in Ousting the Old Officers.

Washington, June 6.—News of the success of the revolutionists in Ecuador came to the navy department today in a cablegram from Capt. Watson, of the Ranger, which warship is now at Guayaquil yesterday, and reads as follows: "The insurgents have possession of the city. Governor General Flores has fled. Ignacio Robles, Libano, has been proclaimed military governor."

Ecuador has been in a turbulent state for some time past and much dissatisfaction was expressed by the people generally at the conduct of the government. This was manifested by the transfer of the celebrated Chilean cruiser Esmeralda from Chili to Japan under cover of the Ecuadorian flag early in the spring, and since that event there have been several revolutionary outbreaks, culminating in this last successful attempt to overthrow the government. It is believed that now that Guayaquil and other ports have fallen into the hands of the revolutionists their complete success will be only a matter of a few days.

MODERN WOODMEN.

Madison, Wis., June 6.—Twenty-five thousand Woodmen are in the city attending the annual picnic of the Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois associations held in connection with the meeting of the head camp. Thirty-one special trains brought the greater part of the visitors. The head camp today unanimously selected Dubuque, Iowa, as the place of the meeting for the next head camp two years from now. The nominations of all head officers were reported.

A MISSISSIPPI FIRE.

Memphis, Tenn., June 6.—Fire at Sardis, Miss., early this morning destroyed the racket store and the stores of J. D. Hanson, R. V. Hunter & Co., J. H. Henderson and J. R. Buchanan & Co., besides several other buildings. The loss is heavy but is as yet unknown.

IRON PIPE ADVANCES.

Pittsburg, June 6.—The National Wrought Iron Pipe association has made an advance of 10 per cent in all line of pipe. Officers state that the advance is made to cover the increased cost of labor and materials.

FIRE IN GARDEN CITY.

Garden City, Minn., June 6.—The residence of A. J. Hall, of this village, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday. Most of the contents were saved. The fire was caused by a defective chimney. Loss, $500; no insurance.

TROUBLESOME TURKS.

Armenian and Arabian Matters Are Greatly Unsettled.

Constantinople, June 6.—The situation of affairs, so far as the settlement of questions in dispute between the Turkish government and the representatives of the powers, regarding reform in Armenia, is, however, shows considerable improvement today. This improvement is undoubtedly due to the firm attitude of the powers in positively refusing to accept any modification of the program which had been mapped out for the improvement of the condition of Armenia. The Turkish minister of foreign affairs, Said Pasha, has had frequent visits to the British embassy since the reply of the note of the powers was delivered, and it is hoped that it will result in persuading the sultan in accepting the inevitable.

The incident of the assault made upon the French officer by a Turkish official may be regarded as closed for the Turkish government has assured the French embassy that it will accord full satisfaction to the French officer. In addition his assailant has been tried by a military tribunal and punished if found guilty.

Advices received here from Jeddah today show that there is no improvement there. The news received here today confirms the statement that the introduction of cholera into Europe by pilgrims returning from Mecca, were at the bottom of the recent murderous assaults upon the consular representatives of Great Britain, France, Russia, etc. The riotous demonstrations have destroyed the cholera hospital erected at Jeddah for the care of the sick pilgrims traveling to and from Mecca.

The Turkish officers have been reinforced, but the foreign population will remain on board the ships in the harbor until the arrival of the war ships of the allied powers when their safety will be guaranteed and peace restored.

MORE TROOPS NEEDED.

De Campos Wants Additional Soldiers for Cuba.

Madrid, June 6.—Capt. Gen. De Campos has sent a cable message to the Spanish government announcing that several insurgent leaders are expected to effect a landing in Cuba shortly, and he adds that owing to fresh disturbances on the island, possibly the recent invasion of the province of Santa Clara by the Cuban revolutionists, he has requested an additional battalion of infantry to Cuba without delay.

The Republicans in the chamber of deputies today formulated a resolution asking the government to respect free elections of Spanish affairs, particularly referring to the insurrection in Cuba, but the resolution was rejected by the overwhelming majority of 12 to 3. The constitution of Gen. Primo Rivera, the captain general of Madrid, who was seriously wounded by Capt. Clavijo on Monday last, for which crime the latter was executed yesterday, shows considerable improvement today.

BADGER ODD FELLOWS.

Madison, Wis., June 6.—The grand lodge of Odd Fellows adjourned sine die today after installing officers and selecting as directors O. F. Hoe, Green Bay; J. W. Watson, Fond du Lac; S. Corning, Kilbuck; Mrs. Smith, Sparta. A resolution was adopted instructing delegates to the sovereign grand lodge to vote for biennial instead of annual sessions of grand lodges. It was also decided to return to the system of yearly instead of half yearly terms for subordinate lodges.

THE REGISTRATION CASE.

Richmond, Va., June 6.—The South Carolina registration case will not come up before the United States court of appeals until near noon tomorrow.

NINE PARDONED.

Stillwater Loses Several of the Striped Fraternity.

St. Paul, June 6.—Nine pardons were granted by the board of prison managers at a meeting held yesterday in Stillwater. The convicts pardoned were Robert Blanz, T. Simpson, Annie Doolittle, Stearns county; S. P. Miller, John Miller, Hennepin county; W. S. Norton, St. Louis county; John McDermott, Ramsey county; Frank Lundgren, Nobles county; Dr. T. J. Pearce, of St. Paul.

Blanz was a murderer, whose life term was commuted to fourteen years. The case of Dr. Pearce, of St. Paul, is still more recent, and his trial and conviction for a murder in Hennepin county, was well known in St. Paul and the crime for which he was sent to Stillwater was the killing by a criminal operation of Mrs. Helen Clayton. He was indicted for murder, but the jury found him guilty of manslaughter and was sentenced by Judge Kelly to seven years' imprisonment.

The trial was quite a noted one. W. Erwin being the defendant's counsel in chief, and a lawyer named Brown being associated with him. The latter created a considerable sensation when the jury brought in its verdict, claiming that Pearce had not had a fair trial and that the judge was unfair. He afterwards apologized.

W. S. Norton was sent up about a year ago from St. Louis county for some crooked transactions in land deals. He had a little over a year to serve.

BONDS TURNED OVER.

London, June 6.—William E. Curtis, assistant secretary of the treasury, of the United States, and Logan Carlele have been busy today at the Rothschild's banking house signing the bonds which are to be turned over to the syndicate on this side of the Atlantic. They completed their work late this afternoon and the bonds were turned over to the Rothschilds.

NOT THE RIGHT MAN.

Washington, June 6.—A telegram was received today by Chief Hazen, the secret service, stating that the man arrested yesterday in Arizona in the belief that he was Henri or Elmer, the party charged with complicity in the theft of $80,000 in gold from the Carson City mint has satisfied the officers that he is not the man they are in search of, and he has been released.

SETTLERS COMING IN.

State Auditor Dunn reports a large increase in the issuance of patents to state lands during the past month of May, as compared with the corresponding month of last year. The number issued in May, 1895, was more than double the number issued in May, 1894, and so far this month the increase over last year's business shows no abatement.
This increase in state land sales is an indication of returning prosperity. Besides this evidence, the St. Paul Dispatch draws attention to the fact that the railroads entering the state are carrying thousands of land seekers and immigrants from other states, who are eager to find homes on the fresh and fertile lands of Minnesota. The Western farmer can raise crops with vastly less labor and expense than is necessary in the older Eastern states, where the value of good farms has been greatly depressed during the past ten or twelve years, and hence, the eagerness of the Dinkards and other Pennsylvania farmers to make the change for what is certainly the better. The new settlers coming into the Northwest are of the best and most provident class.
The Herald yesterday referred to the rapid increase of settlers in the northern counties west of Duluth. There is also a steady influx of settlers into Carlton and Itasca counties, and St. Louis county, which possesses a large quantity of good agricultural land, especially valuable on account of its proximity to the Duluth market, is receiving its share. The value to Duluth of this settlement of the country in its tributary territory cannot be over estimated. It means increased trade for Duluth business men and an addition of wealth to this section of the country that will benefit everyone.

THE DANDELION.

Those who look with a feeling of disgust at the presence of the dandelion upon their lawns should remember that it is no ordinary plant. The dandelion, says the New York Times, belongs to the largest, oldest and most widely diffused order of plants. While other orders of plants have died out and become mere fossils remains in the rocks, this order has survived the geological changes of many different periods, on account of its power of adapting itself to those changes. And these changes in their turn have only made it better suited for all the varied soils and climates of the earth at the present day. We find members of this order in every part of the globe, in places as far apart from each other as they can be. It is the prevailing and dominant order of vegetable life, the most highly finished and most successful family of plants. And the dandelion is one of the most perfect forms belonging to it.
"It is the head and crown of the vegetable kingdom," says the Times, "as man is the head and crown of the animal creation, and it is curious how this highest type of plant always is found only where man, the highest type of animal life, is found, and where he dwells or cultivates the soil. It is never found apart from him; it follows him wherever he goes—in America, Australia and New Zealand; and there in the new home it becomes a silent but eloquent reminder of the dear old land he may never see again." Therefore do not despise the dandelion, even if it is somewhat of a nuisance.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

The suggestion made at the chamber of commerce meeting yesterday that steps be taken to arrange for a real old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration in Duluth this year is an excellent one. It is a long time since the Fourth has been celebrated in Duluth in first-class style, and The Herald is glad to see the business men taking an interest in the matter, because it only needs their hearty cooperation to be made a success. A year ago it was suggested by The Herald that an old-fashioned celebration of the Fourth be arranged, but not sufficient interest was manifested at that time and the idea was abandoned.

There is no doubt that a celebration of this character would attract many visitors to the city. The people on the two iron ranges and in the various towns in the vicinity of the city would spend the Fourth here and the business men could be benefited largely. A large delegation from Superior would also be assured. If the business men will take hold of this matter at once and work untiringly, the Fourth can be made a gala day in Duluth this year.

GERMANY'S ATTITUDE.

There is an interesting article by Count Von Mirbach in the North American Review for June, in which he discusses the silver question, particularly in relation to Germany's attitude as to a bimetallic union. The count says the economic condition of Germany calls loudly for a solution of the silver question; and this surely can be made possible only through an international bimetallic union. He does not dwell upon the financial conditions in Germany, although he declares they are in reality much more unfavorable than they are officially represented to be.

"The economic necessity of a solution of the financial question," says Count Von Mirbach, "is grounded upon the agricultural situation, irrespective of the equal interests of our industries and trades. The lately established commercial treaty policy has modified the agricultural taxes, while, at the same time, the price of agricultural products have assumed, in the markets of the world, a sharp and presumably lasting tendency downwards. The cost of the production of grain has for a considerable time been greater than its value in the market. German agriculture, shaken as it is economically, can stand such a state of affairs only a short time longer. The possibility of bringing about a general economic revival lies essentially in the solution of the currency question by means of the international double standard. However, outside leading circles, here have lacked, with few exceptions, a full understanding of the meaning and importance of the currency question, as well as of the economic results of a gold standard; and, above all, a sufficient recognition of the plight of our agriculture and the still greater dangers with which the near future threatens us."

The recent strong movement in favor of calling an international conference shows that the people of Germany are becoming more enlightened on the currency question and in the leading circles of which the count speaks there is a better understanding of it. The result is that today the bimetallicists in Germany are strong and increasing in strength.

TURKEY'S OBSTINACY.

The "stick mail" of Europe is in serious trouble with the great powers. The reply of the sublime port to the notes of the representatives of Great Britain, France and Russia in regard to the proposed reforms in Armenia is not satisfactory. The Turkish government does not agree to the principle of the control of the proposed reform by the powers, but the probability is that when the war vessels of the powers made their appearance in the neighborhood of Constantinople, the sultan, who is very obstinate, will yield. The powers will not accept any modification of the propositions as to reforms in Armenia, and although the sultan may kick he will likely find it safer to comply with the demands made upon him. He would not put a finger to the aid of the Triple Alliance, and Germany, Austria and Italy will hardly be disposed to back him up in this affair.

Probably the feature of the propositions to which the sultan most strongly objects is the clause providing that taxes are to be collected by local and not by state officials, and enough is to be retained before the money is forwarded to Constantinople to provide for the cost of local administration. Under the present system all tax money is first sent to Constantinople, from which city but little of it returns to Armenia. This proposed reform strikes the sultan in a tender spot—his pocket-book. He would no longer be able to rob the Armenians in the high handed manner that has been the custom heretofore and his revenues would be considerably reduced. In addition to this, other sections of the Turkish empire may demand the application of the new methods to them.

Dr. John S. Billings, of the United States army, was one of the speakers at the meeting of the National Municipal league at Cleveland, O. In his address to the convention he said: "The best city government is that which preserves the health of the people, but with the provision that it be done at a reasonable cost." No stronger argument than this could be made for cheap and pure water, something that Duluth needs.

The Telegrapher's Journal, which is a comparatively new publication, is issued monthly in the interest of the great and useful army of dot and dash makers, appears to be meeting with the success its neat appearance and newsy columns merit. The issue for the current month contains, among many other things, a column of Duluth flashes from some newsy and chatty "lightning jerker." The Herald extends "73" to the new corner.

Gen. Martinez de Campos, who a few weeks ago, on his arrival from Spain in Cuba, said the insurrection was a "small affair" and would be soon ended, has called to the home government to send an immediate and large detail of fresh troops. Apparently the ghost of the often dead Jose Marti still walks to an alarming extent in the eyes of the Castilian soldier-diplomat.

Chicago is a good place to stay away from these days. The heat is intense and the death rate is increasing alarmingly. For first class weather, Duluth always leads Chicago, and it will not be many years before Duluth will lead Chicago in every other respect.

This is the time of year when every theater in the large cities is advertised as "coolest theater in the country." And judging from the frost which some of the companies meet, the claim is well founded in a few instances at least.

The second sub-experiment station should be located at Barnum. The people of that place have made a generous offer of land excellently suited for the purpose, and it is the proper location for an experiment station.

DAME DAISSY'S AT HOME.

Little Dame Daisy stood up in the meadow.

Addressed for her party at three.

Her gown was plain green and looked dark in the shadow.

But her cap was a wonder to see.

Sir Buttercup stood at her side, the first corner.

As always devoted and bold.

And all the good cheer and good will of the summer.

Shone up through his helmet of gold.

The clovers came next in their red, shining masses.

And butterflies swung in the frail, chain-like grasses.

That never a moment were still.

A bevy of sunbeams attended upon her, fleetingly clad in her best.

And she looked down at her feet in her honor.

Till the afternoon paled in the west.

Then all said good night to the bright little lady.

And straightway all faded and curled, leaving only a faint, warm and shady.

A few, however, were left to the world.

AMONG THE LUMBERMEN.

Sales Keeping up Well and Outlook Good.

The week's lumber sales here have been better than was expected, says the Northern Lumberman. Last week these sales stated that it was probable that sales would be few until July, when new lumber piles were in good condition for shipping and when the course of the season's trade in the distributing markets of the East, as well as the crop yield of the year, would be fully determined. The demand has kept up fairly well, however. There have been many reports of a falling tendency to more quiet conditions, but these have been equalled in amount those of the under way and pretty sure to be closed up very shortly.

The sales of the week include 1,000,000 feet of logs run by Loper & Rumery to go to Chicago, and 700,000 feet by C. M. Hill to the same place; 750,000 common stock by the Cranberry Lumber company to Skillings, Whitney & Barnes; 500,000 feet by E. L. Gilbert to E. E. Madden; 1,200,000 feet No. 2 and 500,000 special stock to be cut by the C. N. Nelson Lumber company. Clognet, to go to Chicago, and one sale to New York and Brooklyn parties of several million feet. Several small sales are also reported to have been made by different shippers. The total for the week will foot up to nearly 10,000,000 feet, most of which is of this season's cut and a considerable part of which is yet to be saved. Some of the mills are sold ahead of their saws, others are not far behind them. The demand just now seems to be mostly for common stock.

The local trade is just fair. All the city yards are kept pretty busy and reports from the country are encouraging. There is an occasional order from the country, but the trade is not dead. The outlook for country trade for the mills in the district which has been made by different shippers, and finding the action of the propaganda upon the books, concluded that a mistake had been made.

FATAL COLLISION.

Freight and Coal Trains Collided—Three Killed.

Shamokin, Pa., June 6.—Edward Meyer, Thomas Hottel and William Kleiss, all of Shamokin, are associated of the crew of the Philadelphia & Reading freight train No. 88, were instantly killed by a rear collision early this morning. The freight train ran into a train of coal cars. The wreck occurred on a heavy grade and at a sharp curve in the road and is one of the worst wrecks that has occurred here for many years. About fifty cars were piled on top of each other, blocking both the north and south road tracks. The body of Kleiss was recovered shortly after the wreck, but the bodies of Meyer and Hottel were buried beneath the ruins of the wreckage and their bodies were terribly mangled. It is thought that the freight train was running away when the collision occurred. The tracks were torn up quite a distance at the point where the wreck occurred.

NORTH LAND EXCURSION.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 6.—Large delegations of business men representing the boards of trade and chambers of commerce of the various cities of the West are here today as the guests of the Cleveland chamber of commerce. A special train arrived from Cincinnati last night bringing 125 business men of that city. This morning a large number of city and special trains from Toledo, Columbus, Springfield and Dayton. They were taken for a drive to the various points of interest in the city, after which the party embarked on the steamer North Land for a lake cruise. This evening there will be a banquet at which Senators Sherman and Brice, Governor McKinley, Gen. Harrison and a number of other prominent men will speak.

An... Important Question:

We Feel justified in drawing your attention to an important question at the present time. As summer, with its hot, sunny days, draws nigh, one's attention is turned to cool, comfortable wearing apparel. As the indications from the weather bureau are that this is to be one of the hottest summers experienced for years, not a spasmodic two or three hot days, but a good steady day-in-and-day-out hot summer, we would advise that all be prepared, as past records of Duluth's hot weather shows that the changes from cool to the very hottest weather are sudden; so we again advise you to be prepared by buying your Shirt Waists while the assortment in the different lines is complete, as the demand for this comfortable article is far in excess of the manufacturers' supply. The indications are that as the summer advances the manufacturers will not be able to meet the demand, and if you are not supplied with this necessary article before the present stocks are exhausted, you may be compelled to have the pleasure of wearing your heavy waist during the hot spell.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Misunderstanding of the Message From Rome.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Archbishop Kain, in explanation of how the action of the college of the propaganda in regard to his elevation to the archbishopric of St. Louis came to be misunderstood in the Associated Press dispatches from Rome on Tuesday, says: "The college of the propaganda on May 21 issued a decree enlarging the powers of the coadjutor archbishop of St. Louis, but in no way changing his dignity or title. The decision of the college was made in writing, signed by the cardinals, and a copy of the document was spread upon the records of the vatican. The paper was then referred to the pope, who immediately saw that something more was needed, and signified his intention of issuing a bull translating Archbishop Kenrick and appointing him coadjutor."

"Notification of this action by the pope was conveyed to me in the cablegram, and I immediately gave out. The bull is now being prepared and is not yet upon the records. When the news of the removal of Archbishop Kenrick's removal was called from St. Louis to Rome, the press picked up the story and looked up the records, and finding the action of the propaganda upon the books, concluded that a mistake had been made."

Archbishop Kain states that he does not expect the papal bull to reach him before the next few days from now. He expects the letter mentioned as being on the way in the cardinal secretary's cablegram within the next few days.

FISHING AT DEERWOOD.

Season Starting Well and Good Catches Reported.

Many prominent Duluthians registered at the Deerwood Inn during the past week and were quite fortunate in securing large catches of black bass, rock and silver bass. W. A. Froese and James Boyd averaged about forty pounds apiece; Paul Sharkey and H. R. Armstrong about seventy-five pounds each. M. L. Fishbein about 100 pounds, and Mrs. Fishbein and Miss Elliott were rewarded with nice catches, among them a muskellunge weighing ten pounds pulled in by Miss Elliott, her first catch. Mr. Wilsey and Eva got about thirty pounds each. Messrs. Lammann, Elliott and Murray were rewarded by smaller catches.

The season is starting in splendidly. The Deerwood Inn is now in first-class shape, being in charge of Mr. Hoelner, who is giving his guests excellent treatment and first-class accommodations at low rates. A new feature is that only a nominal charge is made to guests of the house for boats.

AT THE PAVILION.

Big Crowd Up on the Hill Last Evening.

The beauty of the evening tempted many people out of doors last night and the popularity of the Pavilion was fully expressed when it appeared that a very large percentage found their way to the resort on the top of the hill. When the City band gave the evening number the balcony and parquet were well filled and they were filled to the close of the program.

The performers were in their best form and the audience hearty in its applause. Miss Chester's vocal solos gave rise to a double encore as did Miss Smith's charming dancing. Brandon and Regini, contortionists and acrobats, gave a very clever performance, and the sketch team amused the audience. Sadi Al Farabi, the Russian equilibrist, gave a truly wonderful performance.

FOUGHT ABOUT PAULINE.

London, June 6.—The passengers of the Lusitania who have arrived here from Southampton are talking of a row which took place between Duncan E. Harrison and a big Britisher named Woodward on the fifth night out from New York. Woodward, it appears, insulted Pauline Hall, and when Harrison remonstrated, Woodward abused him and Americans generally. Thereupon Harrison struck Woodward in the face and the latter appealed to Capt. Watkins to have the actor put in irons. The captain, however, declined.

HARRISON IN PHILADELPHIA.

New York, June 6.—Ex-President Harrison left this city for Philadelphia today, taking the noon train on the Pennsylvania. He will be the guest of John Wanamaker in Philadelphia for a day. The Bread Contest

The number of competitors for our bread prizes was largely in excess of our calculations, and we were not prepared to take in and make ready for the judges so many loaves of bread.

Although it had been advertised in the papers that the bread must be in by one o'clock, we would not have insisted so strongly on that point if there had not been so many entries. As it was, it was after three o'clock before the names were all entered, the bread numbered and ready for the judges. This materially reduced the time the judges had at their disposal in making their selections of the prize winners, and while we believe they made their awards impartially and as fairly as the limited time would permit, at the same time, if they could have devoted two hours more to their inspection, the result might have been somewhat different. On that account and because a good many were disappointed in not having their bread in on time, we have decided to repeat the contest at an early date.

WEST END. CLOSING OUT SALE.

A Suggestion for Disposing of the Old Irving School Building.

Might be Utilized for a Reading Room and an Armory.

Would Not This be Better Than Selling for Almost Nothing?

The only bid received for the old Irving school building was $300. As the building cost about $10,000 a few years ago, the bid was considered too low by the board of education, and the matter was referred to the committee on buildings and grounds. In speaking of the action of the board, a prominent business man gave a suggestion which might help that body to dispose of the building in a suitable manner. The city, he says, owns four fractional lots near the corner of Central avenue and Ramsey street, which were purchased with the idea of erecting upon them a building to be used for a reading room and armory. Now the city has no building for the lots and the board has one which is of no use for school purposes. Would it not be a good suggestion for the board to present the building to the city for the above named purpose? The city is now paying $40 per month for rent of an armory and four lots are lying idle as unproductive property. Would not this be a stroke of economy all around and a much better means of disposing of the building than to sacrifice it by auctioning it off for a paltry sum to some private individual.

SADDLEROCK.

"Mac" Has Purchased the Well Known Restaurant.

Every man in Duluth who has patronized the local restaurants knows "Mac." There isn't a vesselman from Dan to Beersheba who isn't familiar with his appetizing omelets, although thousands of his friends have never heard his full name—William F. McIntyre. To every one he is "Mac," and that settles it.

"Mac" has purchased the well known restaurant at 207 West Superior street, and opens it tomorrow with new cooks, new waiters and better service than ever. He has already had some seven or eight years' experience in one of Duluth's leading restaurants, and knows what the people need and will give it to them.

"Mac" has also the furnished rooms formerly run in connection and these have been newly fitted up and await public patronage. There is no more popular man in Duluth than this business and he will be sure to prosper.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by any application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one cure, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, the hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by colds. The deafness is caused by a cold in the head, and nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Dr. F. J. Cattell's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WHEAT MARKET STRONG AGAIN TODAY AND MADE AN ADVANCE.

A Milling Demand for Wheat Caused Liverpool Prices to Rise.

Crop Reports from Kansas Bad and Good Buying Orders Came.

Wheat started strong today. The Liverpool market was 1 1/2 higher for futures and 1/4 for spot. Logan & Co.'s private cable from there remarked that there was a milling demand for the wheat. Hitherto the Liverpool dispatches have described the advances there entirely to speculation. Berlin and Paris also sent in improved quotations. Outside domestic markets were very bad. There was liberal buying at Chicago, both local and from the country, and trading here was very fair. July opened 1 1/2 up at 8 1/2, declined 1/4, and quickly recovered, selling up to 8 1/2. It ruled steady but quiet until noon. Then trading was more active and July sold off to 8 1/2. There was good business in cash wheat, the usual premium over July. The close was 1/4 higher than yesterday for cash and 1/4 higher for July.

Following were the closing prices:

Another article in the St. Paul Pioneer Press makes reply to the New York World's protest against the scheme to unite with Canada in provid- ing a deep waterway from the great lakes to the sea. The World says in effect that New York state has already done as much as it proposes to do in fur- nishing a waterway for the West to the ocean, and that any enlargement of the Erie canal to adapt it to the condi- tions of modern traffic must be done at the expense of the federal govern- ment, and it waives away the alterna- tive of a Canadian deep waterway as a thing not to be considered because it would be an outlet controlled and liable to be closed by a foreign power. The Pioneer Press voices the senti- ment of the whole Northwest when it warns New York that she cannot block the way of the West to the sea by an appeal to the supposed prejudice of Western people against joining hands with the British on the north in secur- ing an outlet which New York denies her, and that "if she expects the federal government to assume the whole cost of an enterprise from which she will derive the chief benefit she will have to wait a long while; and as waiting a long while is precisely what she after, she will be still waiting when the West, wearied with her obstructive policy, will find means to cleave a deep water passage to the sea under the more lib- eral auspices of the Canadian govern- ment." This is a project that must engage the attention of the next congress. Sixteen great states are deeply inter- ested in it. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Ken- tucky, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado bring their sur- plus agricultural products from the great lakes to the seaboard. It has been figured that the immediate re- duction in cost of transportation and consequent increase in crop values, re- sulting from deep waterways to the sea would average 5 cents a bushel on grain and potatoes, $4 a ton on hay and $5 a ton on straw, while the saving in transportation of meats would amount to nearly $9 a ton. The direct money gain in the sixteen states men- tioned, computed on the crop reports of 1894, is figured $427,559,000 annually. This is on agricultural products alone. The yearly gain on meats is estimated at $28,053,322. This is but a partial statement of the great gain which the entire West would derive from deep water navigation to the seaboard, be- cause in the figures given no account has been taken of mine products, man- ufactures, lumber, fruits, horses and mules, etc., or the increase in the values of farming lands and of city property. A deep waterway to the sea is a press- ing need, and if New York state, which has benefited largely for years from the immense trade to and from this sec- tion over the canals and railroads of that state will not take any step to- ward deepening its canals and provid- ing the deep draft navigation to the Atlantic, then the people of the North- west stand ready to support a propo- sition to join with Canada in making an international waterway which will give the desired accommodations for our commerce.

GAIL HAMILTON.

Miss Mary Abigail Dodge, better known as Gail Hamilton, is still seriously ill at Mrs. Blaine's home in Washington, and there does not appear to be much prospect of her recovery. It is said that her reason is deranged. The great amount of mental labor expended upon "The Life of James G. Blaine," which she recently completed must be regarded as the main cause of her present lamentable condition. It is several weeks since she was stricken with paralysis, and it is astonishing that she has lived so long, considering her condition. There will be deep regret on the part of a multitude of people who have been acquainted with her personally or have known her through her writings, that her career should end in this manner, and every one will trust that the fears now entertained will not be verified and that she will recover her health and her mental faculties and live
to a peaceful old age.

Few women have written in such vigorous style as has Gail Hamilton.
Her loyalty to friend and cause were of the intense order, and when she became enlisted in any movement she entered into it with heart and soul. Every one will remember the strong articles which she wrote in defense of James G.
Blaine, of whom she was a strong admirer. In keen logic, effective wit and a splendid command of language, she was not surpassed among women writers, and her thrusts at the foes of those whose cause she espoused were straight from the shoulder and made with telling effect. Her plea in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick, the American woman confined in an English prison for poisoning her husband, was a remarkably clear and able statement of the case. Gail Hamilton was firmly convinced of Mrs. Maybrick's innocence, and was indignant at the action of the British home secretary in refusing to permit the case to be reopened and an opportunity afforded for demonstrating that the woman's conviction was unjust.

A PACIFIC CABLE.

The British government is steadily proceeding with its project for laying a submarine cable from British Columbia to Australia. It will be remembered that last winter that government tried to acquire control of Necker island, which was wanted for a mid-ocean telegraph station. But the Hawaiian republic would not give it up, owing to a treaty with the United States by which it has guaranteed to cede any part of its possessions to a foreign power.
Accordingly, Fanning island, 1200 miles south of Honolulu, has been selected instead. Thither the cable is to go direct from Victoria.

During the last half dozen years England has been quietly taking possession of group after group of islands in the South Pacific, with the intention of utilizing the most suitable bits of land for telegraph stations on the great trans-oceanic route. The gobbling process has been carried on unobtrusively but systematically. Protectorates were established wherever it was not practicable to assume ownership.
In 1888 the British flag was raised on Kingman, Palmyra, Washington, Fanning, Christmas, Duda, Reirson and Penrhyn islands. In the same year her majesty the queen took under her protection the Ellice island and the Phoenix, Union and Gilbert groups. She already had a protectorate over the Fiji islands.
In 1889 she took Suvaroff island, and in 1891 Johnston island, which is about 500 miles west of the south end of the Hawaiian archipelago. In 1890 Gar-ret and Danger islands were appropriated. All of these islands and groups have been examined with a view to determining their availability for the purpose mentioned.

There are enormous distances to be traversed by the proposed cable. As the crow flies it is 2380 miles from Victoria to Fanning island. From Fanning island to Fiji it is 1967 miles, and from the latter point to Auckland is 1348 miles. From Auckland to Sydney, in New South Wales, a cable is already laid. This is the route contemplated, the total distance to be covered being about 7200 statute miles. Careful estimates recently made by the hydro-graphic office at Washington show that the cost of laying a trans-Pacific cable would be just about $1000 per mile, including everything. This would bring the total expense of putting down the line from Victoria to Auckland, exclusive of preliminary surveys, up to $7, 200,000. The cost is somewhat increased by the fact that the cable itself has to be carried all the way from England, as there are no submarine cables manufactured on this continent.

There is already a cable between Victoria and Vancouver, which is the terminus of the Canadian Pacific railway, and consequently the proposed line will convey messages direct from Europe to Australia, and the London merchant will be able to send telegrams beneath two oceans to Sydney. From Sydney
the same telegrams could be forwarded back to London by way of India and the continent of Europe. Thus it will be practicable actually, when this project is accomplished, to transmit an electric spark entirely around the world. By throwing open all circuits along the wires the spark could be made to girdle the earth completely in the space of a second. Intensely there is continuous telegraphic communication overland and under seas all the way from Victoria, B. C., to Auckland.
The connection of Auckland with Victoria will make the circuit of the globe complete.

It is a regrettable fact that the Hawaiian islands will not be reached by the new cables. They will still be shut out from all communication with the outside world except by steamships.
This is on account of the refusal of our congress to permit the Hawaiian republic to grant the use of Necker island for a cable station. Owing to the existing treaty, the assent of this country was necessary. Necker island is absolutely of no value for any other purpose, and no injury would have been done to American interests by permitting it to be made a mid-ocean station
for the proposed cable.

Taxpayers everywhere will read with interest the result of the contention between the Metropolitan Traction company and the Third Avenue company
before the New York board of aldor-men. Both corporations want franchises over uptown streets. The Metropolitan people offered a bonus of $100,000 in addition to all purchases and payments the holder of the franchise is required by ordinance to make to the city. To this the Third Avenue managers replied by a proffer of a cash bonus of $250,000 under like conditions.

The latest issue of the Venezuelan Yellow Book reviews the boundary controversy with England, says that the congress of the United States has done its best to bring the boundary question to arbitration, and evinces Venezuela's determination to keep her territory at all costs. The report closes with these words: "The English have not advanced one step within the territory of the republic and it is impossible for them to do so without having a collision with the Venezuelan authorities."

On June 25 delegates from the majority of towns along the Upper Mississippi will meet at Minneapolis to discuss the question of improving navigation on that portion of the river. The call for the convention was issued by the Grand Rapids board of trade. A large attendance of the towns interested is expected, and no doubt arrangements will be made to take immediate steps towards securing the desired result.

It is not too much to say, asserts the Fourth Estate, that the development of modern civilization has been assisted by no agent so powerful as the newspaper, and the progress of all trade, enterprise and invention which has distinguished this century, and more especially the last generation, has been accelerated by no means more effectual than newspaper advertising.

It is a pity that the jury in the case of the McKinnies against the Consolidated Iron works could not agree upon a verdict, but the plaintiffs no doubt feel encouraged because eleven jurors were willing to award them about $400, 000. The expense attending such a suit is heavy, and it is to be regretted that another trial is necessary.

The Chicago Mail notes that several persons were frostbitten in that city
the other night while hurrying home
to change from passengers to hand-cars, but they did not mind it much. Having been paroled by the heat all day they probably were insensible to the change.

Charles A. Dana and Col. McClure, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean, are each trying to convince the other that he was the better friend of Gen. Simon Cameron. They both deserted Cameron's political principles as soon as he was dead.

"In splendor of rhetoric," says the Chicago Times-Herald in an article on our secretaries of state, "Blaine is not surpassed by Webster." This is a point upon which there will be opposing opinions.

The versatility of the California climate and soil is again brought to notice. The Los Angeles Express says:
"We can raise cherries in this locality
as well as pokers hands."

The Milwaukee ball team won a game
the other day and at once the Sentinel of that city rises to remark: "It begins to look as if Milwaukee had a sure-enough baseball team after all."

The revolution in Formosa did not last long after the Japanese troops rushed the island. The Chinese now have a wholesome dread of the victorious Japs.

Amelia Rivers Chanler is at Hot Springs and people in that vicinity should have no difficulty in keeping warm.

The people want bimetalism and they are unalterably opposed to monometallism either of gold or silver.

It is said that merit always wins, but nevertheless the question in the federal court here is, will Merritt win?

The great powers may conclude to curse that Turkey, if the sultan goes too obstinate.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW.

Minneapolis Journal: Whatever may be the merits of the case, it is likely that a verdict against the Lake Superior Consolidated mines in either of the notable cases now on at Duluth will be hailed with a feeling of satisfaction by large majority of the people of Minnesota. If the Merritts, the pioneers of the Mesaba, who bore the "heat and burdens of the day," as Mr. Rockefeller's representative put it, were not taken in and done for
by that gentleman himself, the general impression is that they were by some one who posed without rebuke as the personal agents of the Rockefeller party, and a general impression is often not far from correct. People who recollect the Mes-aba interests held at one time by the Merritts, and now see them absolutely out of the deal, and were in a position to know their plans for the development of iron and steel manufacture in Minnesota, as well as for the opening of this state and the country north of it with money to be dug from the ground in Minnesota, which money will now go to the East, will bitterly regret that their head advice was not as accurate two years ago
as now. It is very much easier, as Mr.
Merritt has now found, to keep your dreams afloat from liquidation, than to try to save it after combustion has commenced.

THINK IT OVER.

Should a friend betray a trust?
Lend your pipe and think it over:
Man is but a cloud of dust—
And life's field is not all clover;
Imperfection there must be,
In this rolling human sea.

Light your pipe and think it over.
Should a foe false witness name?
Light your pipe and think it over:
He hath wandered far in shame,
And life's field is not all clover;
Imperfection there must be,
In this rolling human sea.

Light your pipe and think it over.
When the world seems growing wrong,
Light your pipe and think it over:
Cloud and sunning, grief and sorrow,
Ah, life's field is not all clover!
On the mountain and the vale,
Weeds are growing, rank and free—
You must crop them, badly—
Light your pipe and think it over.

NEVER, NO NEVER.

Anoka Union: Those Washington correspondents keep up the talk of Hon. W.
D. Washburn for governor of Minnesota.
The fact is, however, that Washburn is in the matter and their choice will never fall upon Washburn.

MELONS ON THE WAY.

There's a shout from Grand old Georgia,
An' it's echo fall an' free,
Makes a hallooah! feeling come a-rush-
in over me,
I'll make the people happy—drive the Fog—let the nation's gladness be So here's to the nation's gladness for the melon on the way!

That good old striped melon, with a heart
of gold,
Makes a feast that brings the country
round,
So let the glorious tidings ring out Silver jubilee, and yet settled, but the
melon's on the way!

East an' West I hear 'em singin' songs of joy an' love,
Everting, united—let this wrangling,
Per the country's sake an' sunbeams
"round" the melon o' people play—Ever—body's happy—when the melon's on the way!

IMPOSSIBLE CONVERSATIONS.

"Come right down to the point now,"
said the pen to the ink.
"What's the matter with his nibs today?" whispered the ink to the bottle,
when it got a chance.

"I guess he's been taking a drop," returned the bottle.
"Well, who has a better write?" demanded the pen, who had overheard.

MARRIAGE NOT A FAILURE.

Boston Transcript: Fogg—"It's all no-

FORTUNE

A Heritage Which is Complicated by the Colima Wreck.

Possession Hinges on the Question of Who Died First.

Prof. Whiting's Estate May Yet Cause a Celebrated Case.

San Francisco, June 8.—The fate of an estate valued at $100,000 is likely to rest on whether Professor Harold Whiting, of the University of California, who was lost on the Colima, died before or after his wife, who was drowned on the same voyage. Just before Professor Whiting started on his fatal voyage, he made two wills which he mailed to an old college friend, who is now an attorney at Cambridge, Mass. One was to the effect that if he should be drowned his estate should go to the surviving family. The other was that in case he and his wife and children were all drowned, his estate should revert to the members of his family living in the East.

If Professor Whiting died first, his wife and children immediately became his heirs, but if Mrs. Whiting died later her heirs would inherit the small fortune to the exclusion of the heirs of the professor in the East. Two persons, who said they were representatives of attorneys, have called on A. J. Sutherland and asked whether Whiting or his wife died first.

While the cool-headed survivor believes that Mrs. Whiting met her death some time before her husband sank into a watery grave he would not positively answer the question as he did not see Mrs. Whiting during the storm.

SUITS FOR DAMAGES.

Colima Wreck Will be the Basis for Many.

San Francisco, June 8.—The Chronicle says this morning: That as a result of the testimony given at the general inquiry into the cause of the Colima disaster, a number of suits for damages will be brought against the Pacific Mail Steamship company. It is alleged that the company was criminally negligent in the manner in which it loaded the ship.

Among those who will make the Pacific Mail defend itself against judgment for damages are the wife and three children of a wealthy planter, whose family home is destroyed by the Colima. His home is destroyed by the Colima. His home is destroyed by the Colima.

MURDERED BY BURGLARS.

Milwaukee, June 8.—A special to the Wisconsin from Oconto, Wis., says: Michael Baumgartner, a saloonkeeper near Ponsaukee, was murdered by burglars at midnight. Mrs. Baumgartner was aroused by her husband's cries and saw him grappling with two strangers, who afterwards escaped in a carriage which was standing at the door. Baumgartner was formerly a large mill owner and had resided in the county for thirty-five years. The burglars secured about $80.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is sold by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

BATHING PLACE OPENS.

The bathing resort on Minnesota Point, near Oatka beach, was opened last night and quite a crowd took an initial plunge. Ed. Phenomenon, proprietor, has made many improvements over last year and the place will be more popular than ever. The bathing slide has been raised to 40 feet and is now 100 feet long, just double last year's eleven feet. There are 72 dressing rooms, of which 20 are reserved for ladies. Private lockers have been provided for those who wish to keep their bathing suits at the beach. Another innovation is the restaurant, which was totally lacking last year. The grounds and buildings have been pretty fixed up.

A BISHOP AT DULUTH.

The Episcopal Diocese Likely to be Divided.

Duluth will probably have an Episcopal bishop in the near future. Rev. Dr. Ryan, Dr. J. E. Bowers and W. C. Sargent have returned from the council at Fairbanks full of good tidings. The general convention, which meets in Minneapolis next September will be asked to approve the division of the diocese and the northern part of the state will be set apart as a missionary diocese with a bishop in Duluth. Dr. Ryan thinks such a change would lend a great impetus to church work.

A committee has been appointed to aid in the project, consisting of Archdeacon Appleby, Rev. C. C. Rollitt, J. A. Gillman, W. C. Sargent, Rev. W. Wilkinson and Rev. Dr. Ryan. The following deputies to the general convention were chosen: Rev. J. J. Faule, A. A. Ryan, John Wright, H. P. Nichols, Lay deputies, Judge A. W. Munn, Judge Wilder, Red Wing, V. H. Lightner, St. Paul; Judge Strobeck, Littlefield.

COLLYER'S SUPREME MOMENT.

Miss Mary A. Sedgwick, whom I met over to my old home in England, after an absence of fifteen years, to find mother, writes the Rev. R. Collyer, D.D., in the series of "The Woman" in "Who Moved?"

"The woman who influenced me"—my Journal. She was sitting in the old rocking chair where she had nursed all her children, but could not raise at once, because the sudden shock of her joy held her there some moments, and the years had wrought such a change in me that she looked up with a touch of wonder, but when I said "mother," she held out her arms and cried, "My lad, I did not know thy face but I know thy voice."

There were only a few threads of silver in her hair when I left home, but now it had grown all white. I noticed the threads coming soon after my father died, suddenly while he was working at his anvil on a blazing July day twenty-one years before this time, and she was much changed now, but only I thought, a sound rosy apple changes toward the perfect ripeness.

In the June Atlantic William Sharp writes delightfully of Christina Rossetti. He says:

The Rossetti household was, probably, the most remarkable in London. Philosopher, mystic, student, artist and a most genial and winsome man of strong character, was "a father in a million," as his elder son loved to speak of him. Mrs. Frances Mary Lavinia Rossetti, though English by birth and maternal parentage, was daughter of an Italian gentleman well known in his day. Christina, the translator of the poetry of Milton into sympathetic life, not majestic or masterly Italian. Many distinguished people came to the Rossetti household, and diverse eddies of the new thought of the age circulated through that little society. Then, were there ever four such children in one family as Maria, Gabriel, William and Christina? Two were endowed with high as well as rare and distinctive genius, and all four moved in an atmosphere pregnant with stirring ideas, deep emotions of strong minds and vivid aspirations.

Christina's childhood was spent almost wholly in London. Her first real excitement was afforded by a visit she paid with Gabriel to the Zoological gardens. The two amused themselves, after their first vivid interest, by imagining the thoughts of the caged animals. Christina thought that the birds thought of nothing but escape. Gabriel thought that the little society. Then, were there ever four such children in one family as Maria, Gabriel, William and Christina? HEART DISEASE 30 YEARS!

Short Breath, Palpitation.

Mr. G. W. McKinsey, postmaster of Kokomo, Ind., and a brave ex-soldier, says: "I had been severely troubled with heart disease ever since leaving the army at the close of the late war. I was troubled with palpitation and shortness of breath. I could not sleep on my left side, and had pain around my heart. I became so ill that I was much alarmed and fortunately my attention was called to Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

I decided to try it. The first bottle made a decided improvement in my condition, and five bottles have completely cured me."

the leaves, or the white gleam on windy grass; but he could never tell whether the leaves were those of the oak or the elm, the beech or the chestnut. If he cared for birds and bird-music, it was without heed of distinctions and with no knowledge of the individuality of life in the song of thrush or blackbird, robin or linnet. But sometimes, his sister told me, he would come home with a spray of blossom ("It was always 'blossom'—never, not pear or apple or cherry blossom"), and once or twice with a bird or small animal in a little wicker cage, and would be as earnest and closely observant of all details as any naturalist would be.

It was about this time Christina Rossetti had a dream, which Gabriel promised to depict, and "send to the Academy." (This was before the Germ days.) She dreamed that she was walking in Regent's park at dawn, and that, just as the sun rose, she saw what looked like a wave of yellow light sweep from the trees. This "wave" was a multitude of canaries. Thousands of them rose, circled in a gleaming mass, and then dispersed in every direction. In her dream it was borne in upon her that all the canaries in London had met, and were now returning to their cages. Rossetti was delighted with the idea. He projected some pictorial touches, notably that the visionary was to be clad in yellow, and that the ground underfoot was to be covered with primroses. But either the impulse waned or he did not feel able to do justice to the subject just then, and so postponed it. Or, most likely, other matters of moment distracted the intention.

When she told me this episode, Miss Rossetti added that Gabriel had the idea of writing a poem on the motive; so had she, but she did not write, as she was always waiting for the promised poem from him. "He declared the 'motive' was symbolical, and had some strange personal significance; but he never explained the one or the other, and I don't believe there was anything but whim behind his words. He was always like that, as far back as I can remember, though less whimsical and more moody as a youth than as boy or man. In this respect he was very different from William, who was invariably simple, direct and as quietly cordial as he is now. In fact, I was the ill-timed one of the family; and my dear sister used to say that she had the good sense, William the good nature, Gabriel the good heart, and I the bad temper of our much-loved father and mother."

SIT STRAIGHT.

There is absolutely no necessity for stooping over the handles in either of the two ways so commonly seen—and there is no excuse for so doing—in ordinary road riding, says J. W. Rossetti, M.D., in June Scribner. It may when engaged in "scorching," to be necessary for the "scorching," assume the one or the other of these attitudes—to sprawl with the body straight but almost horizontal, and the head close to the handle bar, or to bend the upper part of the back as if trying to break it in its middle, and throw the shoulders forward as if desiring to make the most nervous and rapid ride—so—one who is not "scorching" does not need to make himself a hideous object to look at, and also to reduce the benefits of wheeling to a minimum, so far as its effect on the chest capacity is concerned.

TOO TIGHT TO CHEW.

Pick. The dinner hour having arrived the cannibals approached the captive, "separate," thundered the chieftain, "to die!"

The maiden lay curled.

"Aw, go chase yourself," she haughtily rejoined.

The savages exchanged startled glances.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Restores Strength and Bodily Vigor.

The cause of that tired, weak, nervous condition in which so many people find themselves, is the failure of the blood to properly nourish the nerves and tissues. Feed the nerves upon pure blood, and they will be steady and strong. Read this:

The Bread Contest

The number of competitors for our bread prizes was largely in excess of our calculations, and we were not prepared to take in and make ready for the judges so many loaves of bread.

Although it had been advertised in the papers that the bread must be in by one o'clock, we would not have insisted so strongly on that point if there had not been so many entries. As it was, it was after three o'clock before the names were all entered, the bread numbered and ready for the judges. This materially reduced the time the judges had at their disposal in making their selections of the prize winners, and while we believe they made their awards impartially and as fairly as the limited time would permit, at the same time, if they could have devoted two hours more to their inspection, the result might have been somewhat different. On that account and because a good many were disappointed in not having their bread in on time, we have decided to repeat the contest at an early date.

For the first time Receiver Ryan has had a decision reversed. Assistant Commissioner Powers doing the deed. It is in the case of Thomas Dunphy, timber claimant against Andrew P. Johnson, pre-emption claimant. Receiver Ryan held for the pre-emption claimant and Register Taylor for the timber and stone claimant. The commissioner held that the claimant had not shown sufficient compliance with the law as to cultivation and improvement to secure the land from being subject to entry under the timber and stone laws. The land is in section 24-47-20. In the case of parties Francis Gormley Secretary Hoke Smith has sustained the local officers and commissioner. Gormley applied to purchase lands under the timber and stone act and his application was refused because the lands were not contiguous. This ruling is sustained.

COME AND BRING THE LITTLE ONES.

Plaintiff is Still Putting in His Case Against J. D. Rockefeller.

Deposition of Officers of Rockefeller's Mining Companies, Read.

Alfred Merritt Was Placed on the Stand About Noon Today.

Yesterday afternoon the Merritt-Rockefeller trial was continued in the United States court. The map sent by Lon Merritt to F. T. Gates was admitted in evidence. The deposition of Charles E. Rand was then offered in evidence and read. He is president of the Penokee and Gogebic Iron company. The questions asked by Judge Shaw were mostly as to the financial condition of his company and the loans made by it in 1893. Mr. Rand admitted that Rockefeller had held obligations of the Penokee and Gogebic company for loans made. Testimony as to the receivership Judge Tinner was disposed to exclude.

Col. Harris argued at length in favor of admitting it. He said the plaintiff proposed to prove that the Penokee and Gogebic in which Mr. Rockefeller intervened of the company's knowledge of existing insolvency at that time. Judge Tinner sustained the objection and all reference to the consolidated contract was ruled out.

walk property, could be forced out and the Consolidated thereby enabled to take possession of the property. It was further alleged that Mr. Gates said they were in possession and owned the road and could force all others out. The Merritts demurred and said a suit for damages might follow but it is alleged that Gates then replied that John D. Rockefeller was worth $50,000,000 and would be found pretty hard to get a judgment against him. Judge Tinner held the evidence incompetent and the plaintiff took an exception.

ALFRED MERRITT CALLED. Alfred Merritt was then called. He gave his age as 45 and was married, resided in Duluth. He gave testimony as to his work of exploration and development of mining properties together with his brothers. The character of the one deposits was briefly described. Witness was one of the charter members of the Missabe road, then a director, and later on president and was engaged in the construction work and not in the financial work in New York.

Witness never met Rockefeller but did know Gates whom he first met in the spring of 1893 on the range, and afterward on Aug. 17, 1893, in New York and about Sept. 2, 1893, in Duluth and several times later. Remembered Rockefeller coming to New York and on return of communicating a conversation between Lon Merritt and Rockefeller. He declined to sign it and was sent by his brothers to New York to make further inquiries as to the consolidation. Previous to that they had heard little of it. Mr. Merritt arrived in New York on Aug. 17 and went to the Missabe office where he met Lon Merritt to whom he explained why he had gone to New York. Under Sheriff Shephard and Chief Deputy Clerk West left this morning with John Webber for Stillwater, where the latter will remain two years because he raised a check from $9 to $96. His custodians are expected to return. Jimmy Murphy, the lightweight pugilist is arranging a scientific boxing contest to be given soon and he expects to give a clean, rattling entertainment. The Cross Country club ran to Lake-side and back this afternoon. Some time in July the members of the High School Football team will join and train with the club twice a week. The Chicago Physical Culture Baseball club, expects to bring two league teams here to play, probably the first Saturday after July 4.

Fine List of Artists at the Pavilion Next Week.

For next week beginning tomorrow the management of the Pavilion will offer its patrons a magnificent entertainment, one of the very best that has been given. Mark Ben Achmet and his troupe of Arabs six in number will appear. They do a wonderful act and made a tremendous hit in Duluth. They are in fact one of the very best attractions of the circuit. Dolan and Lenhart, travesty and character artists, will also appear. They come direct from the Metropolitan Opera house, St. Paul. Murphy and Raymond, refined comedy character artists, vocalists and dancers, are also to be here. They appeared recently at the Hopkins' theater in Chicago and were received with great favor. Howard and Emerson, eccentric descriptive vocalists, will make their first appearance west of Chicago. They will sing all the latest songs and illustrate them by stereotyping. Tomorrow afternoon and evening the Duluth City band will render Rosini's great overture "William Tell." Last evening Sadie Al Parabi made his last appearance. Each night during his engagement he received an ovation and was one of the most popular artists at the Pavilion this year. Tonight a fine program will be given. Brandon and Regon will do their great act which has astonished and delighted all. Hanley, Logan and Hanley will again present their amusing skit. The City band will give popular numbers as usual.

A. Bailey's Family to Sue an Insurance Company.

The heirs of Abram Bailey, who made a somewhat mysterious and sensational disappearance from this city in June, 1893, have announced their intention of bringing suit against the Bankers' Life association of Minnesota, to recover the life insurance money on policies held by Bailey at the time of his death or disappearance. This morning Louisa A. James, a daughter of Abram Bailey, petitioned the district court to have Theresa A. Bailey, wife of the missing man, appointed guardian ad litem of Susie B. and Elizabeth K. Bailey for the purpose of bringing suit against the insurance company. Judge Lewis signed the order. The complaint in the case has not yet been filed. There will undoubtedly be a fight on the part of the insurance company.

In the case of Paul Blacky against August Farnowski et al, to clear title to Third division lots, Judge Lewis appointed T. M. Holinski guardian ad litem of several infant defendants.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, of Two Harbors, were given permission to adopt the natural child of Annie Scharf, who died in the hospital last summer. Judge Ensign this morning took under advisement an application for a new trial by the city in the personal injury case of August Reiben against the city.

In the case of the Detroit Safe company against Joseph Backus, a motion to confirm a justice's judgment and a motion for judgment for the defendant were both denied. In the case of the New England Furniture company against Sarah L. Bryant et al a motion for judgment on the pleadings against the sureties on a bond was taken under advisement by Judge Moor.

The following settling of court cases has been made for next week:

other, by all means give us unlimited money and fasten it on the front

other, by all means give us unlimited free change, for we can by law regulate extravagance and speculation, but poverty and starvation are not so easily cured. I think the foregoing will explain where I stand. I am for gold and silver upon a basis that beautifully ignores the question of the "gold bugs" of the East as well as the clamoring of the "silver kings" of the West, and recognizes only the right of every being of the nation as a whole.

John McKinley—I am satisfied that the West is not in favor of silver, and am as much in favor of one metal as the other and I believe that the people are going to vote this way regardless of politics. There is no question in my mind but that the majority of the voters in this district are in favor of the gold many are fast coming to believe in the use of silver. I have been astonished at the number of men who have taken a short time said they had been converted to that belief and many of them were men whom I had never before strong gold loanings. I believe that a majority of the city and district, if the matter were put to a vote, would sustain C. A. Towne in the opinion he has expressed, and I think he represents the voice of the people. Possibly he is even too conservative for the average of opinions on the subject.

E. C. Gridley—I am a bimetalist. If the other nations have taken no action on this question before the next congress assemblies the United States should do no waiting. The countries which do not care for gold or silver restoration of silver, I sustain C. A. Towne in the position he has taken.

A LITTLE HISTORY

B. B. Lovett—I was surprised to see so much of the history mentioned by the New Tribune, declare that international bimetalism was desirable but that this country could not go it alone. If these gentlemen would send their minds back over the history of this country for the last thirty-five years they would see how utterly fallacious such a proposition is. From 1862 to 1873 the country was in a panic. This country had neither gold nor silver; specie payments were suspended and greenbacks were the only real money in circulation with full legal tender power.

foreign investors refuse to buy our bonds and stocks or send back their securities, as the gold standard men say they will do we dare to coin silver. On the contrary this government put down the greatest rebellion in history at an average cost of $4,000,000 a year for 10 years.

If we could do all that on an irredeemable paper currency, with the fate of the nation the balance, for four years of that period, how infinitely similar it is to say that now, in a time of profound peace, the richest nation on earth with the smallest national debt and the highest credit cannot call silver to aid with the least consent of England, France and Germany.

If in times of war and great national peril we could conduct all of our international exchanges without gold or silver, what would be the result?

Pioneer Press, and endorse it. I represent my position exactly, and I am sure, of a majority of Republicans in this vicinity.

Beriah Magoffin—I am pleased with Mr. Towne's finance—greatly pleased with his exposition. He voices the wishes of the people of this country and silver must be reinstated. We want bimetalism and the people of the whole world want it and are going to have it. If necessary the United States can afford to lead and it will be the best before the rest of civilization will be in line.

JOHN OWENS, clerk of the district court at Fairbury, remonetizes silver. An alliance with all or any foreign power is desirable but not essential. I believe by jealously guarding our own market against the products of any foreign country that by the enforcement of our laws or by the acts of her business people should work against the United States we would find the best for the position of any country in the world. I deplore the cowardly attitude of our country leaders in standing neither for capital. Not "is it right?" but "will it be popular?" seems to be the motto. The facts and statistics which have recently been brought forth by the financial condition of such nations as China, Japan and Mexico have done much to dissipate the fears of those who have questioned the possibility of undertaking free and unlimited coinage by the United States alone. If these nations have been able to prosper, as it now unquestioned that they have, under the single silver standard, there is no possible objection to our doing so.

Amateur Baseball Circuit Formed and Duluth is in It.

First Game of Series This Afternoon Between Duluth and Stillwater.

Jimmy Murphy Issues a Challenge to Meet Any Lightweight.

A state league of amateur ball teams has been formed and the first game for the championship of the circuit is scheduled for this afternoon between Duluth and Stillwater. All the towns entered have good clubs, and the result of the series is not anywhere near a foregone conclusion, as several of the clubs already claim the title and with perhaps nearly equal justice.

The clubs in the circuit follow: Wiltona, St. Paul Pickets, St. Anthony Browns, Minneapolis, Brainerd, St. Cloud, Duluth, Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire. The two latter clubs are in Wisconsin, but they have joined the Minnesota league. The Duluth club has arranged to play the Brainerd team five games, Stillwater, 6; Browns, 7; Minneapolis, 6; Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls, 5 each, and the St. Paul Pickets, 6. Arrangements with Wiltona and St. Cloud are not yet completed.

The games with Virginia were simply awful, and the less said of them the better. Stillwater has a strong team and the games with Duluth today and tomorrow are expected to be warm ones. Brainerd will play in Duluth June 23.

Next Saturday and Sunday the Chicago Female Baseball club will play, and a large crowd will undoubtedly be out to see the girls in bloomers slide to first. Hot, hot, hot.

The Herald is in receipt of the following communication from Jimmy Murphy, the clever little lightweight:

Duluth, Minn., June 4, 1895. Now, having backing to the extent of $2000, I am ready to meet any lightweight in the country, bar none, either to a finish or in a limited round contest of not less than twenty rounds, either in private or before the club, offering the largest purse within a month's time after signing of the articles. Before leaving Minneapolis, two weeks ago, I understood Billy Edwards, of Minneapolis, was anxious to meet me. If he is in earnest this is his opportunity.

I would suggest St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth as a suitable place. There are recognized athletic clubs in these cities, offering reasonable purses for limited round contests. I will deposit a forfeit in any Duluth bank where this challenge is accepted to show that I am in earnest. Address me in care of sporting editor of The Herald. Respectfully yours, Jimmy Murphy.

The regular medal shoot of the Central Gun club was held at Spirit Lake Sunday afternoon. The class medal shoot, twenty-five birds at known angles for each man, resulted as follows:

Class A—Shell, 24; Bonehill, 22; Day, 21; Dodge, 19.
Class B—Moore, 20; Metcalf, 19; Kampaska, 18; Pearson, 15.
Class C—Jones, 17; Smith, 11; Pasternak, 11; Williams, 5.

For Hulberg unknown angle medal, open to club, fifteen birds: Dodge, 12; Kampaska, 12; Bonehill, Metcalf, Shell, Pearson, 10 each; Jones, 9; Moore, 8; Day, 7; Williams, 2. Dodge won from Kampaska on shoot.

Extra shoot, ten singles, known angles: Shell, 10; Dodge, 9; Bonehill, 9; Day, 7; Metcalf, 7; Moore, 7; Pearson, 7; Williams, 5; Jones, 5; Smith, 4.

West Duluth is organizing a cycle evening, and its first meeting was Monday evening, when the following officers were elected: Dr. Charost, president; secretary, Henry Freeston; captain, Blue and white were adopted. The club meets Mondays and Fridays of each week.

John Hanna and Charles Weir box fifteen rounds at the Farber theater to night.

The Minneapolis Journal contains the following on the protest against De Brisy and Hackett on the grounds of professionalism:

"An attempt was made to disqualify De Brisy last year on the same grounds, but there was no evidence and it fell through. There is some indignation in the determined onslaught made on the Canadian team, but it is believed in Minneapolis to be with-out justification. Houghton and Mahen, the St. Paul double, are said to believe they have no show in a race where these men are entered, but it is difficult to understand how that can affect the minor standing of the Canadians.

Charges of professionalism will be presented against the men named at the next annual meeting, to be held here in June. That against Hackett is about boats, while as a matter of fact he claims fish in the summer for so much a day and has nothing to do with boats. If the young gentlemen of the social grounds the best thing they can do is to content themselves with cutting the fat Portage canoeists down to size.

The amateur rowing rules, however, do not contain a word against fish cleaning, and Hackett is eligible to row. Apropos, there was a funny incident at the last regatta which a few have remembered, namely, whether De Brisy was to row double in a four or old tub of a shell. Mahen and Houghton had a new puzzle, but they were tired men, and to do them justice it was far from being an even battle, though it is doubtful whether they could hold the Rat Portage team men a quarter of a mile at any time.

St. Paul men had never been against stroke. Then races were rowed. 44

Hackett and did not know what sort of a bird he was, so they felt confident, and immediately condescended with the condition of their boats. Then came the protest against De Brisy in double (all short about eight lengths in a mile and a half.

The protest against De Brisy is to be based on his absence from Rat Portage during the winter and his return there for the rowing season. The assumption is that he gets compensated for returning to Rat Portage from Montreal. De Brisy's story that he has been working for the Canadian Pacific all through the winter, but that work is slack at this time, and he goes back to Rat Portage, regarding that town as his home.

The attempt to force these men out of the association simply because they can go a bit is a move that will not find favor with admirers of square sport, and most rowing men in the Northwest hope it will fail, as it did last year in De Brisy's case, unless the St. Paul oarsmen are able to offer some more tangible evidence than they did then.

Following, according to the Journal, is the approximate weight of the St. Paul crew, of which Hackett has been elected captain:

Position	Name	Weight
One	Band	152
Two	Dingere	169
Three	Bohland	170
Four	Halbert	160
Five	Bullington	172
Six	Houghton	172
Stroke	Langford	174

This is the crew that will row a matched race at Minnetonka with the Wisconsin "six" on June 22. There will be a change at No. 5, and Houghton will most likely pull stroke.

Frank Howe, of Brainerd, son of the Blouaine lumberman of that place, has been signed by Anson, of the Chicago ball team, to pitch. The young man, who is 25 years old, plays ball for amusement only. He is very speedy and Anson, who tried him seven innings a few weeks ago, likes his curves.

TO ROW AT DULUTH.

Wisconsin University Crew to Be Here July 4.

Madison, Wis., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The university of Wisconsin, with second place in the Western inter-collegiate athletic meeting, held at Chicago last week, has hopes of adding to her laurels in the boat races planned for this season. The first race of the year will be with the Delaware crew from Chicago, which will be rowed on Lake Mendota, June 16; then the crew and substitutes will go to Lake Minnetonka, and row the Minnesota crew on June 22. The date to row the Duluth crew has not yet been fixed, but will probably be July 4.

At present the crew is made up as follows: Alexander, A. E., bow; Alexander, W. 2; Day, 3; Austin, 4; Webster, 5; McCaville, 6; Capt. Robt. 7; Seymour, stroke; Crandall, coxswain.

The second crew is composed of the following men: Fisher, 1; Kinnaird, 2; Smith, A. H. 3; Daniels, 4; Schmidtman, 5; Dietrich, 6; Onstad, 7; De Lay, stroke; Peterson, coxswain.

A different stroke is being used this year, but it has not yet been proved that the crew are rowing in better time than last year. Coach Marston, an old Cornell captain, who worked the eight last year, taught them the Cornell stroke. Then races were rowed. 44 strokes to the minute. This year the stroke will probably be not more than 35 a minute and in practice the crew row a 38 stroke. The Australian stroke used this year has won all the races there, but so far the time has not been faster than last year. In fact it has been slower a little if anything than the practice time made under Coach Marston. Coach O'Don, the famous Australian oarsman, thinks the men will show up in good time just before the races, and has hopes that his stroke will bring out better time in the end. Up to the present time they have not been able to make the two miles under twelve minutes.

This year the crew has practically the same advantages as last year with the exception that they have been coached a little longer and in addition will have a little more racing experience before rowing with the Minnesota crew. The race with the Delaware crew from Chicago to be rowed eight days before the Lake Minnetonka race will give them valuable experience. The weight does not average up to last year but there is not so much discrepancy in the respective weight of the men. Day, Austin and Webster are tall and rather slim while the other men average 5 feet 7 inches. There is some doubt as to whether they are as good contest men as last year's crew. However they have been training since the first week in January. Until the ice broke up on the lake they practiced on the rowing machine in the gymnasium, but this is not considered as good training as the rowing tank which the Minnesota crew has. Last year five men in the crew had rowed in races before, while this year Robt and Alexander are the only men who have had previous racing experience. This seemed to be Minnesota's strong point last year and will be again this year.

It was conceded by the Minnesota crew that they had at least ten seconds' advantage of Wisconsin, on shells, Wisconsin having the poorer boat. This year the Dodge crew has a new boat built by Dave for racing purposes purely. It has been used only enough to accommodate the crew to its style and movement. The new shell is 31 feet 9 inches long, and weighs 220 pounds, 20 pounds less than the last year's boat. The keelson (which in the old shells is a board six inches wide hollowed out at intervals) in the new shell is constructed in two strips running the entire length of the shell, each strip about an inch in width, and one eight or ten inches above the other. Cross pieces and side braces make this keel the means of keeping the shell from vibrating vertically while riding in the water.

The gunwales of the boat are also something new. Instead of the single solid strip along each side the gunwales are double, one strip in the middle runs along the top of the hull the whole length and a lighter strip in the new shell is constructed in two strips running the entire length of the shell, each strip about an inch in width, and one eight or ten inches above the other. Cross pieces and side braces make this keel the means of keeping the shell from vibrating vertically while riding in the water.

The gunwales of the boat are also something new. Instead of the single solid strip along each side the gunwales are double, one strip in the middle runs along the top of the hull the whole length and a lighter strip in the new shell is constructed in two strips running the entire length of the shell, each strip about an inch in width, and one eight or ten inches above the other. Cross pieces and side braces make this keel the means of keeping the shell from vibrating vertically while riding in the water.

DROUIN

Curious Freaks of an Atlantic City Prominent Millionaire.

Known to the Townspeople as the Second Monte Cristo.

Generous to all, Particularly to Those Who Speak Kindly of Him.

The most eccentric rich man in America today is Edward Drouin, the millionaire ex-president of the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange, but now of Atlantic City, says the Louisville Times. In that seaside town he is familiarly known as the second Count of Monte Cristo. He carries immense rolls of crisp greenbacks about him, and these he uses as a child would his toys, simply to make fun for himself. He manages to purchase a lot of it every day.

In his choice of fun he is distinctly humorous. His tastes run from goldfish to goats with gold-tipped horns. A pretty good index of Millionaire Drouin's character is the names of his new ponies. One is called Crazy and its mate is Paresis. He drives them with their names, and more than once the Atlantic City police have had to caution the reckless millionaire to stop his furious driving. He drives in a rubber-tired road-car.

His first playful act was with the newshy. The lads who sold him papers received in payment banknotes, the denominations of which were unlikely to be lives as ones. Then the Atlantic City merchants who served him were paid double and call. It was his of their goods without asking, says the New York World.

He developed George Francis Train's interesting but expensive penchant for sending telegraph messenger boys on the most trivial errands and frequently the entire force of both the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph offices at his beck and call. It was his daily habit to wire instructions to prominent Americans and the gleam of his ten dollars in denomination with which to light his cigars.

Another favorite amusement was to place a gold coin or a banknote under the heel of his boot and then give it to the first boy who succeeded in shoving his foot off the money. He frequently purchased merry-go-rounds and gave them to the children.

On March 3, 1894, because there was a delay in the arrival of a luxury steamer, he called on the proprietor and in fifteen minutes had bought him out and was running the newspaper. Later in the day he made arrangements through City Solicitor Endicott and Prosecutor Percy to purchase the Atlantic City Journal.

On March 5, 1894, the townspeople were thrown into a ferment of excitement upon hearing that Drouin intended to buy the Second National bank outright. He had business in the bank that day and took umbrage because one of the clerks answered him rather gruffly. He turned on his heel, swearing that he would own the bank and discharge the clerk within a week. An hour afterward he was buying the bank stock right and left.

On March 14, 1894, while traveling on a through express on the West Jersey railroad, he asked the conductor to stop at May's Landing. The conductor refused, and Drouin was furious. He loudly declared, "well, when I get home I'll buy your old road out and then I'll have trains run to suit myself."

On March 14, 1894, while traveling on a through express on the West Jersey railroad, he asked the conductor to stop at May's Landing. The conductor refused, and Drouin was furious. He loudly declared, "well, when I get home I'll buy your old road out and then I'll have trains run to suit myself."

He was true to his word in so far as making a beginning was concerned, for a few days later he actually purchased a considerable block of the stock, and only failed to become sole owner of the road because some of the largest holders of stock refused to sell.

He became such an easy prey to dishonest tradesmen that several of them in transactions with Drouin overreached themselves and he very properly refused to pay their exorbitant demands. From this the rumor spread that the second Monte Cristo was going " broke."

To disprove this he appeared in every public place in town actually burning money and then through his lawyers made known his reason for declining to settle certain bills. He also instructed his legal advisors to sue several of the more rapacious merchants for swindling.

Drouin disappeared with his wife in Atlantic City during the first week of the past April. His first conspicuous act was to purchase the Harford Inn, a noted pleasure resort in Chelsea, New York, which he sold to a party of his friends. The tenant refused to vacate upon being ordered to do so by Mr. Drouin, which so exasperated him that he went to the house one night with his valet and broke all the windows on the ground floor. Later he paid for the damage done. Drouin always pays—that's his aim in life.

A few days later he purchased the famous old Inlet Road house. When asked by an inquisitive townsman what he wanted it for, he replied: "To make a present of it to the first person I can find in this town who knows enough to mind his own business."

On April 20 Drouin appeared with his latest purchase, a rubber-tired road-car, which he calls "Paresis" and "Crazy." Every day since Drouin has dashed up and down Atlantic avenue during the busiest hours of the day, dressed in the height of fashion and standing upright in the car. Immediately after these exhibitions he walks up and down the entire length of the avenue, apparently oblivious of the passers-by, yet enjoying the comments his appearance provokes. He also purchased a racing bicycle and on it rode to Pleasantville and back, a distance of ten miles, in twenty-four minutes, beating the best record of local races.

On Saturday, April 27, he made a great sensation by appearing in the street ablaze with diamonds. A huge stone, seemingly of the purest water, blazed in his immaculate shirt-front. Another brilliant sparkled in his broad gold necktie ring, and the gleam of a smaller stone could be seen in his gold collar button. His cuff buttons were studded with precious stones, and he carried a cane that was worth even more than its weight in gold. It was a thick, round stick of some highly polished wood and the carved handle was studded with a big bunch of diamonds, large and small, and all of exquisite cut and purest water. Drouin swung the cane with a bored air, and was apparently indifferent to the wondering comments of the natives, who gazed upon him and his jewels with open-mouthed astonishment.

Drouin is accompanied by his pretty wife. She seems to enjoy the sensations which he causes daily almost as much as he does himself. She is a blonde, with short, curly hair. Drouin married Miss Emily Thompson, the daughter of a wealthy wholesale grocer of Peoria, Ill. He was then at the high-tide of his career, and they seemed to get along famously together. She fell in with his whims and thought nothing of going for long, mad drives with him at any hour of the night. On one of the coldest days last March, a year ago she created a sensation by driving around the town attired in a light summer dress and wearing ribbons of natural flowers twined about her.

Like George Law, the late lamented Coal Oil Johnny and Squire Abingdon, Drouin is generally surrounded by a set of men who make a good living out of his bounty. He is more than generous. A story is told of a newspaper man who wrote something in a kindly spirit about Drouin. The latter at once hunted up the author of the article, and had him to dine at his house. After dinner Drouin presented his guest with a diamond-studded watch chain worth $500. No refusal would be accepted, and as the recipient of the present was about to fasten it onto his vest, the watch chain Drouin insisted on his accepting a gold watch, also studded with diamonds and with his name engraved on the case.

Drouin does not look like his age, by fifteen years, and is as agile as a cat. This he is convinced is more by instinct than by nature. He has a habit of waiting a moment at his own door upon returning late at night. Another thing which created considerable talk was a notion he took to geld the horns of a big bull-goat that he owns. He drives this goat to a handsome cart.

On Easter Monday he placed an order for fifty dozen of eggs, and then had all the messenger boys by special invitation at his Illinois avenue cottage, where he turned over the entire lower floor to the lads, and an old-fashioned Easter egg peeling contest was held. With all his oddities Drouin is highly respected in this town, and he is allowed to do pretty much as he pleases. The police say that he is harmless and kind hearted, and in fact the poor of the town have had good reason to bless both him and his wife.

Drouin told a vivid story of "Tribby" craze. Recently, in reading the novel he came across the name of "Duriel." This he is convinced is more by instinct than by nature. The Electrical Workers Decide to Have a Dance Labor Day.

Reorganization of Painters Effected With Mr. Bradley as President.

Mass Meeting of Laboring Men on Saturday, June 22, Proposed.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the electrical workers Thursday night at their hall in the building block. Routine matters only were discussed. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a dance Labor Day evening. W. A. Warnecke and Otto Ahlquist were appointed delegates to the convention of the State Federation of Labor June 25. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions of confidence with the widow of John W. Hart who was recently accidentally killed.

The waiters are agitating the question of holding an open meeting of waitresses with a union of the women-workers and ultimately affiliating with the Trades assembly. The meeting will be addressed by local speakers and a program of recitations, etc., will be prepared.

A great deal more interest is being manifested in the meetings of the electrical workers and interesting discussions in regard to the way work is being done in the city and other questions are drawing a good attendance. The union is getting into better shape since the last meeting. President James Powers, secretary and treasurer. The meeting was addressed by James Powers, secretary and treasurer. A meeting to perfect the organization will be held Tuesday evening, June 10, at 7 o'clock.

The painters reorganized last night with an attendance of twenty-seven at Electrical Workers' hall. Mr. Bradley was elected president. James McDowell, street car employee, E. R. Cobb, Nichols, Thomas, Tuller, President, secretary, and Fred Schoeninger.

Delegates to the convention of the State Federation of Labor have been elected as follows: Clagburn, Emil; Applehagen, printers; Henry Dvorak, George Elmer, James McDowell, street car employee, E. R. Cobb, Nichols, Thomas, Tuller, President, secretary, and Fred Schoeninger.

The plasterers, Amalgamated Association Iron and Steel Workers, lathers and machine woodworkers have perfected organizations and will affiliate with the assembly at the next meeting, June 14. A committee will be appointed to make arrangements for Labor Day celebration and new officers will be elected at the meeting.

The "homebodies" are all working and have plenty of work in sight and the tailors are continuing the fight against Carrington with persistence.

Plans are being laid for a monster mass meeting of laboring men Saturday, June 22, the night before the convention. Addresses will be made by speakers from St. Paul and Minneapolis. The matter will come up at the assembly.

STATE FEDERATION. The state federation will meet in Duluth on Saturday, June 22, the meeting having been postponed two weeks, and as several important questions are being discussed great interest is taken in the meeting. The gathering will be held in the council chamber. The Duluth people are anxious to see the state federation.

The state federation is beginning to be looked upon as a sort of clearing house where all labor accounts will be compared and balanced. The members believe that the organization can do good work and they intend to make it more than the sum of its parts. It has been for the past two years. They realize the difficulties in the way, but believe that the state federation will be a success.

The recent advance in wages made by the Carnegie company, which is said to involve 25,000 men, is followed by the Ohio (Ohio) National company's works, after the scale of 100 cents. The details were given under a pledge of secrecy. The advance in wages may be as well not to mention them specifically. They indicate a fairly lively movement. There is no dissension in the union ranks and that the issues to be raised are of a minor nature, which it is claimed, have not acted for the best interests of labor. While Duluth is a pleasant city, it is so far away that many unions cannot afford to send a delegate. It would seem wiser to hold future meetings in one of the Twin Cities. Labor legislation will be reviewed at the meeting and provisions made for the enforcement of all labor laws passed at the last session of the legislature. An attempt will also be made to further the fraternal relations between the Trade and Labor Councils of the large cities. Some of the unions want the meeting postponed a week or two because they think a larger attendance can be secured. The Duluth people are anxious, however, to have it as soon as possible, on account of their local conditions.

It may be proper to remind Mrs. Valesh that the Minneapolis unions do not constitute the whole federation, and that Duluth is no farther from the Twin Cities than the Twin Cities are from Duluth, and so far as the delegates from outside the three cities are concerned Duluth is as accessible as either St. Paul or Minneapolis.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY. In the June Herald, Hon. John Low discusses several phases of economics under the title, "Some Questions of the Day." He reviews the questions in an impartial manner. He points out the fact that, while in some directions, the individual counts for more today than he ever did before, in other ways he is being absorbed into organizations. The individual business man is giving way to the corporation. The single wage worker is being absorbed into the trade union. The writer suggests that this tendency toward organization need cause no alarm. It arises largely from

A place has at last been discovered in which women are paid more than men for the same work. It is in the Monongahela in plate works, where, owing to the superior skill of the women, they are paid $1.50 a day, while the men get but $1.25.

Thirteen trade unions, three co-operative associations of producers, nine associations of consumers, and fifty-seven new friendly societies, fifty-seven new branches of existing societies, have been added to the register of industrial organizations during the month of March. Thirty-six provident societies and one trade union are reported to have commenced "winding up."

Commissioner of Patents J. S. Seymour, by a flimsy construction of law, attempted to take the printing of the Patent Office Gazette out of the hands of private firms by contract. Columbia Typographical union has been ordered to keep out of the business.

One hundred and ninety-seven seamstresses in New York have been ordered to keep out of the business. The London Society of Composers expended $15,000 in the month of March. There were 57,000 letters granted, each letter averaging $2.50, and the average for letters in the month of March was $29.52, so that nearly half of it was spent in letters.

The burden is one that has been steadily growing for some time. HASKINS

The Work Done by the Officer of the Humane Society.

He Has Been in the Society Service For Several Years.

Abused Animals and People are Relieved and Other Evils Corrected.

Everyone knows Humane Henry Haskins. He has been humane officer so long that one is apt to forget he ever had a predecessor. During his five years' service Henry has been chased by goats, bitten by dogs and harassed by people with complaints to make of their neighbors. He is filled to the brim with interesting reminiscences of his varied experiences.

Eight years ago the Humane society was organized in St. Louis county, with R. C. Grady as president and G. Spangler as secretary. The work, however, languished and had practically died out when, in 1890, the society took on new life and commenced active operations. At that time the officers were Judge S. E. Ryan, president, and G. Spangler, secretary. Rev. Mr. Kemp, at present in Chicago, was one of the men who assisted in organizing the society. A fund of $250 was raised by earnest efforts and the society began to look for a suitable agent. Forty-seven applicants made their appearance and worried the selecting committee almost to death. From among this number Henry Haskins received the appointment, and it is said the society has never regretted the selection.

HENRY'S PEDIGREE. "Humane" Henry was born in England in 1870 and came to this country while a boy. In 1881 he arrived in Duluth and in 1890 was made humane officer for St. Louis county. He commenced his regime by arresting a number of Russian Jew peddlers who were used, as Henry describes it, "to run things."

Three-legged horses. Henry brought in six the first week and had no trouble since. In the entire five years he has made ninety-five arrests of men named "Blanche." He thinks that he is about as good as dead.

Blanche. No. I think not; she's just as connected about that as she is about anything else.

ST. CINCINNATI DEFINITION. Washington Star: "Mike," said Molding Pete, who had been reading from a book on the subject of "what does a man mean?" "I think not; she's just as connected about that as she is about anything else."

Lord Randolph Churchill declared that chess was the immortal game. The late Sir Henry James is reported to have said that more than half the population of the world are "chess players." JOHNNY REB. A Single Cavalryman Stamped a whole Regiment.

Some of the most amusing stories are those which have a serious side. An old Confederate soldier the other day told a Courier-Journal man a story that is very laughable in these days of peace. It was after John Morgan was made a general of some of his old squadrons and had been restored to the ranks. Chances were for some time they had been imprisoned. The company had been in the hands of a man named Quirk, a reckless, daring fellow, and a stranger to fear. The company went by the name of Quirk's company.

At this time the company was down in Middle Tennessee and was skirmishing around a fight when they suddenly came upon a regiment of federal cavalry. In a short while the two bodies of soldiers were at each other's face, and the bullets were flying thick and fast through the air. The light that followed was a terrible one, and each side seemed determined to stand its ground. Suddenly, as the light was at its fiercest, a man named Quirk, a reckless, daring fellow, and a stranger to fear. The company went by the name of Quirk's company.
